LIBERAL DEFEAT FEARED

LONDON, Jan. 21.—A sensation was caused to-day by the announcement from the Liberal headquarters that the Liberals will not accept the ministerial control if their majority is not at least as high as forty, including the labor members, but without the Irish Nationalists.

The indications this afternoon were that the Liberal and Labor majority would not reach forty.

The Nationalists are redoubling over their third straight victory in West Belfast, where Joseph Devlin defeated Boyd Carpenter, Conservative, by 587 votes. The majority in the two previous elections did not exceed 50.

Two more Unionist gains, at Bridgwater and Somerset, West Perthshire, were partially offset by a Liberal gain over the Socialists at Colne Valley, where Victor Grayson was defeated.

The party totals at 4 p. m. were: Unionists, 180; Liberals, 151; Laborites, 30; Nationalists, 78.

Joseph Albert Pease, the chief Liberal whip, joined the prominent government officials who have been swept off their feet by the rising tide of tariff reform in the English counties, the Saffron Walden division of Essex giving a majority of 272 for the Unionist candidate, colonel H. J. Pesky.

Upon the announcement in the street of these figures this afternoon a waiting crowd became wild with excitement and tried to mob Pease, who was forced to the necessity of being escorted home by a strong posse of police.

Four more Unionist gains were announced early in the day, at Louth, Stafford, and Lanchashire Leek, Staffordshire, and Lonsdale.

UNION PAY FOR CITY'S WORKERS

Mayor Hibbard to-day "unionized" every branch of the city service through a circular letter sent out to all heads of departments, notifying them to put the prevailing schedule of wages to all tradesmen and mechanics employed by the city who are members of labor unions.

In his letter the Mayor points out that the elimination of "students" from the payrolls has enabled him to make this general advance in wages without making any extraordinary increase in the payrolls. About 200 men will be affected.

Mayor Hibbard declares that he wants Boston to set an example for private employers. Following is his letter:

January 21, 1910.

To the Heads of Departments:

You are hereby directed to adjust your wage schedules so that all the mechanics in the employ of your department will be paid according to the scale now established by the local unions in their several trades of employment, the said readjustment to take effect from and after this date. You will be particular, however, to see that the men to whom these increases are granted are actually performing the work designated by these ratings, and not to men who may have secured entry into the city's employ on a certain rating, but who are engaged in other work. In cases where a man is employed at this special work for only a portion of each week, attention must be paid to a proper adjustment, so that he will receive unbon compensation for such time as he is actually employed at that work.

The elimination of "students" from the pay rolls has now made it possible for the city to effect this general advance in wages without increasing the cost of labor to any appreciable extent, and it is important, I feel, that the city should act liberally in dealing with its faithful employees, thereby setting an example to private employers and other corporations.

Respectfully,
GEORGE A. HIBBARD, Mayor.

HOCKING POOL ENGINEERS TO BE PUNISHED

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The special committee named by the board of governors of the stock exchange to investigate the Pope-Jenkins & Hocking Valley Iron & Coal pool and its collapse on Wednesday, with the consequent failure of three stock exchange firms, is said to have reported to the governors. A public statement may be made later.

The report was carefully guarded, but rumor on the floor of the exchange to-day was that it would result in the most drastic action ever taken by the governors. The charges of H. P. Ortis of the Roberts, Hall & Criss firm, which failed yesterday for between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, to the effect that the wreck of his house was caused by other members of the exchange repudiating their contracts with them—"wrecking," as Ortis termed it—have caused one of the biggest sensations the exchange has ever had.

Predictions were made to-day that unless the matter is thoroughly sifted and stern is and promptly dealt with the Legislature will take cognizance of it, as legislative bill putting the exchange under State supervision and regulation is what is most feared and expected as the result of this fresh scandal immediately on the heels of the "Rock Island panic."

It was my belief to-day that any more stock exchange houses would fail as the result of the Hocking episode. Several were known to have been badly crippled, but measures were taken to keep their condition from the public to avoid swelling the scandal to greater proportions and the exchange firms to which they are indebted will carry them along until they can pull themselves out of the hole.

ACTRESS ASKS A DIVORCE ON CRUELTY PLEA

Mrs. Loretta A. Morrill of Dorchester, known on the stage as Lola Merrill, and niece-in-law of George M. Cohen, playwright and actor, in whose production she has appeared, played a new role to-day when she appeared in the Suffolk County Divorce Court before Judge King and asked to be freed from her husband, Frederick C. Morrill, a New York druggist, to whom she was secretly married when she was sixteen years old.

After hearing her testimony and that of her sister, Miss Ann Doran, Judge King informed Lawyer Thomas J. Barry that he would have to present more evidence. The case was held open for that purpose. Mrs. Morrill was professionally known as Lola Crawford when she became the wife of Brinton Dreyer, son of Governor Draper.

"I was but sixteen years old when we were married," testified Mrs. Morrill as she was living with my parents in Brook street, Brookline, and Mr. Morrill was attending a preparatory medical school. The date of the marriage was December 29, 1908. The marriage was secret. We were married by Justice of the Peace Edward J. Holland.

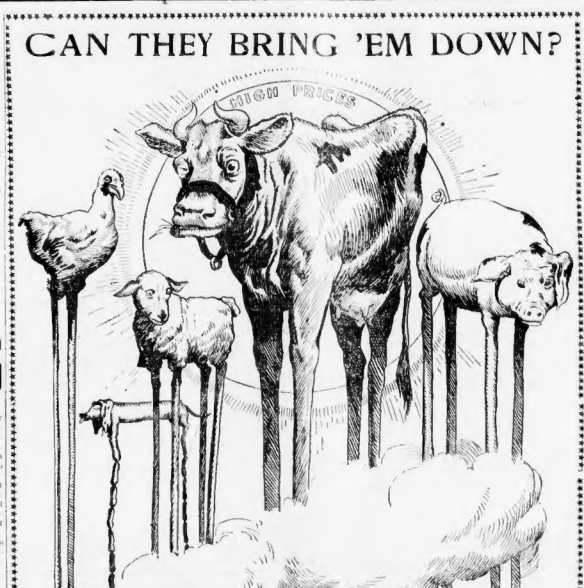
"We were living with his mother in New York and we did not get on well at all the time. He was terribly jealous of me and accused me of things. That was about six months after we were married.

"But you didn't like old Joe," asked Judge King looking over his glasses.

"Oh, no!" replied the complainant demurely. "He beat me terribly and I was forced to come home to Boston. He gave me two black eyes. I was a nervous wreck because of his treatment.

"I did not hear from him for nine years after. Then, while in Chicago, I received two letters from him in which he asked me to allow him to get a divorce. I did not reply to either."

Mrs. Morrill now lives with her family at No. 185 Harvard street, Dorchester. She is one of sixteen children. Her father was complimented by former President Roosevelt because of the size of his family.



2 SCHOONERS GO ON ROCKS IN THE FOG

The three-masted schooner S. G. Hazlett, loaded with lumber, ran ashore in the fog to-day on Hamblen's reef Shoal, off Chatham, and the Little Elsie, a lobster fishing schooner, went on the rocks about the same time at the mouth of the Portsmouth harbor.

On the Hazlett are Captain W. L. Staples, Mrs. Staples and a crew of eight men. The schooner was bound from Georgia to Portland. After running on the dangerous shoal signals of distress were fired and the life-saving crew in charge of Captain Kelly went to the rescue.

The captain and crew refused to leave the vessel and a tug was procured, which has alongside the imperilled boat. If it is found that the schooner cannot be floated the tug will take the woman and men off. The wind is high and a storm threatens.

Unless the Haskell can be pulled off the rocks before the storm strikes her she will be a total wreck.

The vessel is owned by George F. Emery of Boston. She had been through the Christmas gale and was badly battered by the storm.

The Little Elsie was trying to make the Portsmouth Harbor in a high tide when she ran on the rocks. Signals of distress were fired and the life-saving crews from Wood Island and Wallis Sands responded. On board the Elsie were Captain Fred Partridge and E. Hanna. They were rescued. They left Boston yesterday. The boat was owned by Isaac C. Harvey of Commercial Wharf, Boston. Mr. Harvey said to-day that he expected the boat to be a total loss.

FOOD EXPERT GLIDDEN GIVES HIS EXPLANATION OF HIGH LIVING PRICES

Walter S. Glidden, member of the Governor's Council and for thirty-five years a dealer in meat on North Market street, gives to the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day his views on the food situation. They are the views of an expert and are worth considering very seriously.

By Walter S. Glidden.

This whole question of high prices of meat and the way that people are talking about them is enough to give one an epileptic fit.

There is this rumbling sound all over, and housekeepers are complaining and calling the dealers names and saying that we wholesalers are making money. I do hope this subject will be thrashed out in some public way, that the people will be told why prices are high and that there will be an end of this constant talk about some one making money out of the poor man.

It is all bosh. The difficulty is right here: The production does not equal the consumption. That is the whole solution of the question. Our population has increased, and there is a demand for the best cuts. Every one wants to eat sirloin steak and is no longer contented to eat round or even chuck steak. Pieces of meat that we used to boil years ago and consider good eating are now despised by the workingman. When he sits down to his dinner he wants the best, and because he works hard and gets better wages he argues that he should have the best that is going.

"They All Want the Best Cuts."

He eats grapefruit for breakfast besides cereal, then wants a steak or a juicy chop, not one from the forequarters. Then he tells someone what he had for breakfast, and that man wants the same thing. So do other people, and consequently it makes that particular part of the carcass in demand, and there is not enough of this part to supply the demand, and the prices go up.

See how the average person to-day wants spinach, cucumbers and other seasonable things, and he will have them. People are bound to enjoy life, and all want the most toothsome things set before them.

Most of us have to go back to the cheaper cuts of meat. Eat the sirloin beefsteak, make more stews, and hash that we boys had given to us.

"We Want More Producers, Less Consumers."

Then some of these fellows around here from the country driving wagons better go back to the farm and raise stocks, raise hogs, raise everything in the shape of food. We want more producers and less consumers. I was up in Vermont yesterday and I told the farmers that they must raise more produce, and this would be better for them than to come here to the city and try for a fat job at some desk. Go back to the farm. Let us encourage the immigrant to go and till the soil, and then when more are producing prices will do down.

But let us have an end of all this stuff about giving up the eating of meat. Eat less expensive cuts, and learn how to make more palatable food out of the poorer cuts. This is what people should do, and what they can do, to bring about some change.

MASS MEETING IS CALLED FOR FANEUIL HALL

More Than a Million People Throughout the Country Are Enlisted in Great Battle Against High Prices.

Boston has entered the big country-wide meat strike with a rush.

So many demands have been made for a hearing on the question of food prices that advocates of the no-meat plan have engaged Faneuil Hall for a mass-meeting to-morrow night at which the whole subject may be discussed and action taken.

This meeting will probably be followed by a great mass-meeting next week in Tremont Temple.

Boston will be among the first of the great cities to join in the movement that is sweeping the country to protest against the extortionate prices of meats. It is necessary for the success of this movement that it begin auspiciously. For that reason all citizens who wish to understand the movement of protest should attend to-morrow night's meeting.

Sixty thousand citizens of Boston have already pledged themselves to refrain from eating meat until the price become reasonable. Canvassers, who have visited only a part of the city, have reported that many will begin the meat boycott here.

The first Meat Boycott Club has been organized. William H. Scheiren, a lawyer in the Tremont Building, who has been elected secretary of the provisional central committee of this organization, said this afternoon:

60,000 Already Pledged.

"For some time we have had ten men canvassing the city to find out how the people of Boston feel on the anti-meat question. They have 60,000 pledges. The 60,000 include many prominent people who are anxious to join the movement to help those less fortunate than themselves.

"These men and women are ready to sign the pledges to join the clubs which will be organized throughout the city. We are already getting out our printed matter. I have never seen a movement take hold so quickly in this city.

"The purpose is to induce people not to purchase any meat until prices come down to a figure which we think is reasonable. This we regard as the only effective way to curb the meat trust. All other means have failed.

"A permanent committee will be organized and meetings will be held in homes throughout the city. Early next week we will have a great mass meeting at Tremont Temple. Edward M. Shanley, a lawyer in the Carney Building, is chairman of the committee."

Will Canvass Legislature.

A deluge of bills to meet the situation is expected at the State House. Representative W. H. O'Brien this afternoon put a de-nation headed by H. H. Lyons, who ask that there be appropriate legislation. They will canvass the Legislature.

Secretary Chandler of the Twentieth Century Club said to-day that he would like to meet representatives of the First Meat Boycott Club. The club will take up the subject. Max Mitchell, civic leader and philanthropist, said this afternoon that he would help the meat boycott committee organize clubs throughout the city. He believes that is the only way the people can effectually voice their protest against the Meat Trust.

In ten States the meat agitation has been taken hold of, and it is believed that it will sweep the whole country as no other movement has in years.

Although in all the large cities like Cleveland, where the crusade began, the labor unions are leading the anti-extortion war, leaders of organized labor in Boston say they are not taking any active part in the anti-meat strike, because for months they have not been able to eat meat more than once or twice a week, anyway.

Can't Afford Meat, Says Murphy.

President Michael A. Murphy of the Central Labor Union to-day declared that thousands of workingmen with families in this city have been reduced to give up the use of meat except on rare occasions, not only because of the high price of beef, but because of high prices on other more pressing necessaries of life.

"The approach to European conditions, where the laborer gets meat only on Sundays and holidays, is nearer in this country than most people realize," said President Murphy.

"Only criminal prosecution of the trusts will solve the problem."

"This is not merely a meat problem; it is a problem of maintaining even in part the standard of living that has been the boast of the American workingman for generations."

President Murphy adds that to refuse to eat meat is to rob Peter to pay Paul; it is taking money from the pockets of the Meat Trust to put it into the pockets of the Cereal Trust, which is controlled by the same people. "What the meat trust will lose the Cereal Trust will gain, and the Cereal Trust is controlled by the same people as the Meat Trust," says Mr. Murphy. "So where is the advantage?"

Petition to Congress.

Boston Knights of Labor have already taken action along the lines suggested by President Murphy. They have petitioned Congress to take action to save the prices of food reduced.

Mr. Murphy compares prices here and in Canada. He says:

"Meat in Canada sells for one-third less than is charged in Boston for the same quality. The slaughters draw beef from the two countries and that which can't be crossed by the farmers of Canada with

NEW WITNESS IN DOUBT ABOUT JAMES RUSEAU

Warren I. Potter, an engineer of Ogdensburg, N. Y., a witness called by the respondents in the Russell will hearing, to-day failed to identify the claimant, Daniel Blake Russell, as James Dobert Ruseau.

Potter testified that in 1893 and '94 he was employed as a fireman on the stranger Governor Smith, plying on the Great Lakes. He said that while loading freight at Milwaukee a man came up to him, said he came from Messina and that his name was Myron Russell, that he wanted to get back home and asked for transportation. Potter then testified that he saw this same man again in Messina and that at the second meeting the man said his name was Jim Ruseau.

Mr. Potter was questioned by Attorney Proctor as follows:

Q.—I now ask you to look at the claimant, and say whether or not he is the man to whom you refer? A.—He resembles the man, but I cannot swear that he is the same.

Under cross examination by Attorney Sheldon, for Daniel Blake Russell, the witness said that he could not tell whether the claimant was Ruseau, Russell or what his name was. He admitted that he was receiving $5 a day and all his expenses for coming here to testify.

Benjamin Demo, oiler of police from Messina, N. Y., who testified during the hearing last October, was recalled to the stand to-day. He said that he never took from the Messina postoffice, nor asked to have taken, any cancellation stamps. This testimony was offered to refute testimony offered by lawyers for Daniel Blake Russell, to the effect that cancellation stamps were stolen from the Messina postoffice for the purpose of forging letters.

A newspaper was offered in evidence to show that Louis Ruseau died in August, 1900. When it was given in evidence Attorney Proctor called the attention of Attorney Proctor to the fact that he was impeaching the testimony of Mrs. Ruseau, who testified that her son Louis died in 1901. Attorney Proctor made no reply.

WIFE OFFERS ALIBI DEFENCE FOR CORBETT

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 20.—In an effort to prove an alibi for Joseph Corbett, on trial for the fatal shooting of Charles E. Randall a year ago, Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Corbett, his wife, swore to-day that her husband was working in Boston the day the crime was committed.

Mrs. Corbett, who was in tears during most of her examination, said:

"A year ago Joe lived at No. 94 Oak street, Boston. I was working for R. H. White & Co. January 19 he left his employment with the Johnson Paper Manufacturing Company on Broad street, Revere. When I came home on the evening of January 21 the day before the shooting—I found a card asking Joe to go to work next day. The next morning I found this card and he went to work. He returned from work that night."

An effort was made to show that Corbett had threatened her life. She denied this.

The line taken up by Corbett's lawyers indicates that they will try to show that Corbett was not in the vicinity the day two men with shot guns held up and murdered Randall as he was riding in a carriage with Miss Emma Dodge on January 9 of last year. The witnesses for the defence to-day all looked at Corbett in the prisoners' pen and said that he is not either of the men who did the killing.

Randall's son-in-law, William Armstrong, was in the office of the mills when his father-in-law was carried in dying from his wounds. "When my father-in-law was carried in," he said, "he was asked, 'Who shot you?' He answered: 'Two men—Dagos.'"

Mrs. Mary A. Rae, a witness for the defence, saw the shooting and saw two men in the neighborhood carrying shotguns. She thought they were Italians. She looked at Corbett and said he is not either of the men.

William F. Monighan, Mrs. Florence A. Greene and Jesse Gladding, all witnesses to the shooting, gave like testimony.

COURT PUZZLE IN WILL OF AGED WOMAN

The will of Mrs. Frances P. Tabor of Malden, filed for probate at East Cambridge, bedides disposing of several pet birds which, if they existed when the will was drawn, in 1902, have since died, provides a problem for the courts in determining the disposition of funds bequeathed to general terms for the prevention of cruelty to animals and the prevention of cruelty to children, and an estate in Arlington to be used as a home for old folks.

No trustees or organizations to control the home or the funds are named in the will.

All money in bank to the credit of the testator prior to 1884 is equally divided between Tremont Temple and the Baptist Bethel on Hanover street. Money in the Warren Bank, Charlestown, is to found a home for destitute children on Austin street, Charlestown. The property mentioned from 71 to 77 Portland street is equally divided between the American Baptist Missionary Union and the American Baptist Home Mission Society. Money in the Provident Savings Bank is to be devoted to the prevention of cruelty to animals. Money in the Franklin Savings Bank is left for the prevention of cruelty to children. Her deposit in the Malden Savings Bank goes to the Salvation Army. Deposits in the Five Cents, Union and Widder savings banks are to be devoted to the upkeep of the old folks' home at Arlington, to establish which her former home is left, as well as deposits in the Arlington Savings Bank and the Medford Trust Bank. The Old Ladies' Home, Cambridge, is to receive deposits in the Medford Savings Bank.

The estate consists of $50,000 in real and $25,000 in personal property. Charles S. Norris of Melrose, is named as executor, but he has asked the court for power to act as administrator, to collect rents and perform other necessary current services.

Charles Tabor, a cousin, a cousin of Mrs. Tabor, and others have filed appearance, and may contest the will.

SNOW DRIVER FALLS INTO ICY CHANNEL

After struggling for ten minutes in the icy waters of old Fort Point channel, Joseph Pauline of No. 84 Quincy street, Roxbury, was rescued to-day by Thomas Connolly. Pauline was on the point of exhaustion when Connolly reached him with the lifebelt. Pauline was trying to raise the fallboard of a lighter loaded with snow when he fell forward into the water. Several persons who witnessed the accident tried to reach him with ropes. Connolly reached him with the life boat, kept for such emergencies at the drawbridge. The thoroughly chilled man was taken to the Relief Hospital.

Roosevelt Triumphs in Clash With Kaiser.

BERLIN—According to current gossip in the German court circles there has been a friendly conflict between Emperor William and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. Regarding the way Colonel Roosevelt is to be entertained during his approaching visit to Berlin, Colonel Roosevelt is expected in Berlin on April 28 and will leave on May 1. The Emperor desired to treat the ex-President like a crowned monarch. Colonel Roosevelt rebelled at such an idea. The ex-President insists upon being treated as a private citizen of the United States. He will not be the recipient of any public honors. He will not stay at the royal palace, but will stop at a hotel and accept the Kaiser's hospitality when he calls upon him at the royal palace. It will be a case of William Hohenzollern, the man, entertaining Theodore Roosevelt, the man.

Suffragettes Escape Ducking.

LONDON—Suffragette missionaries who were sent to Carnarvonshire, the constituency of Mr. Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to worry him in his campaign, barely escaped a ducking in the town of Carnarvon. The Chancellor is held in the highest esteem there and when, notwithstanding a kindly warning from the police, the women began to abuse him from a wagonette in the public square the crowd began to run the wagonette toward the great public fountain amid wild shouts of "Duck them!" The women appealed to the police, who rescued them and escorted them to the police station.

French Cardinal in Court.

RHEIMS, France—The first of the suits brought by the Public School Teachers' Association against the Bishops who signed the episcopal letter warning Catholic parents that the teaching in the public schools jeopardized the religious belief of their children has come to trial here. The defendant, Cardinal Ludovic Henry Lucon, Archbishop of Rheims, appeared in court attired in his ecclesiastical garments, and wearing the scarlet beretta.

Actress Attacks a Critic.

BERLIN—Frau Ida Roland, a leading actress, assaulted the well known critic Siegfried Jacobsohn in the foyer of the Deutsches Theatre because he had adversely criticised her here in the managerial troubles at the Hebbel Theatre, where she is now appearing. Frau Roland, thickly veiled, rushed at Jacobsohn and slapped his face, crying "You know what that is for."

TRIPLE DEATH PLOT IS LAID TO A WOMAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—A plot of jealousy and revenge, carried out with unanimate brutality, led to the murder of Salvadore Scalponi, his young and pretty wife, Felicia Maria, and Concetta Martino, a nurse in their home, at No. 10 Monigomery street, according to the police. With new score detectives ransacking the foreign quarters of the city today, the search was especially directed for the woman who, according to information in the hands of the police, played a leading part in the fiendish crime that was discovered late yesterday.

It was at first believed that robbery was the motive of the murderers. The house had apparently been ransacked, and the bodies of the women stripped in a frantic search, it seemed, for money. A careful survey of the little tenement, however, disclosed the fact that $200 carried by Mrs. Scalponi in her stocking and $20 in the corset of the nurse had not been touched.

With that development in mind the authorities took the position that the mutilation of the bodies was the result of a motiveless madness and the working of terrible revenge was carried out after the victims were dead.

That the assassins were known in the Scalponi home and probably entered as friends, was the declaration made today by Captain Carey, head of the homicide bureau. A thorough examination of the bodies today revealed the fact that knives, bludgeons and the hands of garroters had been used in the perpetration of the crime. Mrs. Scalponi's heavy hair saved her from a broken skull when she was struck near the door, apparently, but her throat had been cut as she attempted to defend herself. Scalponi's skull was crushed and the nurse had been struck again and again, judging from the many fractures in her head.

KNOX'S PLAN ON MANCHURIA TURNED DOWN

TOKIO, Jan. 21. The reply of the Japanese Government to the United States' proposal for the neutralization of the Manchurian railways was handed to American Ambassador O'Brien this afternoon. It is a polite declination.

No intimation of the contents of the memorandum of reply is given, but the best information obtainable intimates that the communication is brief and that the declination to accept the neutralization proposition is based on several grounds, the chief of which are:

That the American plan would be of no advantage whatever to Japan.

It would afford no advantage to China.

It would not change the commercial situation in Manchuria, where Japan is adhering strictly to its pledges of an open door and equal opportunity.

It is understood that the reply is couched in terms of friendly appreciation of the American purpose, but it is not of an argumentative character, and its conclusions are not qualified.

RUSSIANS ALSO TAKE FIRM STAND AGAINST PROPOSAL

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 21.—Russia today declined to permit the neutralization of the Manchurian railroads. A formal reply to the suggestion was handed to Ambassador Rockhill today in which a firm stand is taken against the project fathered by Secretary of State Knox.

PRINCESS THROWN, LEG DISLOCATED

VIENNA, Jan. 21.—Princess Elizabeth of Roumania was hurled from a speeding sleigh today near Sinaia and her right leg was dislocated. She will be laid up for a fortnight. She is the daughter of Crown Prince Ferdinand.

WATER WAGONS ARE SAFE NOW; ALL CLIMB ON

A large and flourishing coterie of Greater Boston residents will be glad to learn that Colonel Frederick A. Robinson has been appointed inspector of water wagons.

There has been a feeling for some time past that the water wagons in this city were not safe. Many people with the best intentions in the world have approached them, only to shy off because of their rickety condition.

This serious condition has been a menace to the uplift movement, and it remained for Water Commissioner Hannan to recognize the fact and provide a competent man to take hold of a situation that was rapidly growing intolerable.

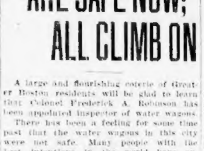
Colonel Robinson is a Yorktown veteran, and he knows a good, well-broken, gentle and kindly disposed water wagon when he sees it. One of the first things the Colonel proposes to do is to paint all the water wagons in town. After a conference with Jim White of Ward 18, Mayor White it was decided not to paint them pink.

The real reason why the new department is to be made to the manager's office.

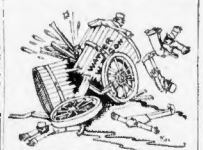
Colonel Robinson formerly had charge of the documents in the city messenger's office. The messenger's department has been done away with—hence Colonel Robinson's new job.

To night his friends give the colonel a dinner at Hotel Green.

(No water wagon will be used in connecting with the dinner.)



THIS ONE WILL NEED IMMEDIATE ATTENTION BY THE NEW INSPECTOR.



PERHAPS THE NEW INSPECTOR CAN PREVENT THE ANNUAL COLLAPSE OF THIS WORTHY VEHICLE.

BANKER HURT COASTING WITH BROCKTON MEN

SOUTH POLAND, Me., Jan. 21.—Charles P. Holland, treasurer of the Plymouth County Safe Deposit & Trust Company of Brockton, was seriously injured, and Daniel W. Field, a wealthy shoe manufacturer of Boston and Brockton, and M. A. Dutch, president of the Brockton Public Market, had narrow escapes when a bobsled on which they were coasting crashed into a tree. Mr. Holland has a fractured skull and injuries to the left leg, two bones of which are broken. His condition is critical.

The three were members of a group of wealthy Boston and Brockton residents who are here for a Winter outing. Mr. Holland was steering the bobsled and Messrs. Field and Dutch had climbed on behind him, when the sleigh started to work down the steep mountainside at high speed.

Before any of the men had time to jump from the sled the runner struck the heavy rock and crashed into a tree. Field and Dutch landed in snowdrifts several yards away and escaped with a severe shaking up, but Holland was thrown violently against the tree.

1,500 THREAD WORKERS IDLE IN PAWTUCKET

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 21.—Forced out of work by a strike at the Coates Thread Plant, Lidy, 1500 workers today swelled the total of the mill employees to 1,500. Unless some agreement is reached before tomorrow noon all of the 2,500 workers will be out.

The strikers met this afternoon to consider overtures to be made to the management.

Manager Alfred M. Conant says no word has come to him from the strikers. "When the 28 hour law went into effect in Rhode Island two years ago," said Mr. Conant, "no cut was made in the wages of our employees. But with the present 56-hour law we find it necessary to make this wage change, as we cannot afford to pay sixty hours wages for fifty-six hours of work."

The strikers are not organized. Although they have asked John Golden, national president of the Textile Workers, to take charge of the strike.

Eighty women sorters walked out of the Union Wadding Company plant today because of a cut of two hours' watch means twenty five cents a day to each worker.

FORE RIVER TO BUILD TWO BIG WARSHIPS

QUINCY, Jan. 20.—Contracts for the construction of two great battleships for Argentina at a cost of about $22,000,000 are expected to be awarded to the Fore River Shipbuilding company, according to news received here today from Buenos Ayres.

The Fore River company's scope is becoming enormous in consulting work done in the United States, Great Britain, Germany, France and Italy for the building of warships.

The Argentine naval officers who received the bids on behalf of Argentina passed the Quincy company's proposition at the top of the list, and Fore River officials in dispatches say that the council of ministers has ratified the recommendation of the naval commission that the "Moreno" and "Rivadavia," the United States, the plans of the company in this city have not received approval as yet for the final award.

President Francis T. Bowles of the Fore River company is expected to return after having been to Buenos Ayres in the interest of this contract, and officials here are awaiting word from him.

COP'S HOME LOOTED; HE ON THE BEAT

Willie John J. Rochel, a Malden police officer, was patrolling his regular beat, which includes his home at No. 19 Linden avenue, and while Mrs. Rochel was calling on friends, a burglar ransacked the premises, securing $300 worth of jewelry. The stolen goods included two diamond rings, a gold watch and chain and a gold knights of Columbus emblem.

SEEKS MISSING FATHER.

Search is being made for W. F. Dutton of the South End, who mysteriously disappeared from home January 10. His daughter has asked the AMERICAN to try and locate him and also sends this message to him: "Your little girl is ill from worrying. Won't you please come back or write a few lines to cheer her up."

Marries Way Into New World.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—21.—Yvonne Bodo, who is only 18, arrived from Havre in the second cabin of the French liner La Bretagne expecting to meet at the pier her childhood sweetheart, a young French clerk of this city. She was permitted to view him only from the rail of the liner. Yvonne's young man interested the French Consulate in his love affair and it was decided that Yvonne may celebrate the event by marrying into the United States.

Woman Artist Weds Chauffeur.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21.—There is more than usual interest in the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. W. H. Rucker, widow of a member of a prominent family of West Virginia, noted for her beauty and famed for her success as a portrait artist and painter of miniatures, to C. Calvert Casey, a chauffeur in the employ of Leon E. Greenbaum. The ceremony was performed on January 12.

JACK JOHNSON'S CASE CONTINUED

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Jack Johnson, the champion heavyweight, was arraigned before Magistrate Hermann in the Jefferson Market Police Court today on a charge of having beaten Herman Linder, also a fighter, a date of No. 2 West Twenty-fifth street. Linder, whose face looked as if it had passed through a slaughter house for an adjournment as he had not had the time to get witnesses together. Magistrate Hermann decided to hear his story and adjourned the case till to-morrow.

WHOLE NATION SWEPT BY BOYCOTT AGAINST MEAT; BOSTON IN LINE

their meat unless they pay a high tariff is kept in existence by a trust-controlled congress.

"In a resolution adopted by the Central Labor Union of Boston at its last meeting and to be presented to the Legislature today there is a solution of this problem. This is the resolution:

That we petition the Legislature to use such power as may be vested in it . . . to correct the evils growing out of trust control of the necessities of life and to cooperate with the federal authorities in the final prosecutions of those who by restraint of trade and monopolistic activities have placed the selling price of food, fuel and clothing out of all proportion to the labor cost of production.

Never Mind: Eat Asparagus.

Meat prices may not everywhere rise, but Boston has one excuse for rejoicing. The price of asparagus is going down. The common people think for have not been given to eating asparagus tips on a wholesale scale. But the Federal Government (which is always helping the people) has decided that the time are being robbed on asparagus rates.

Here is how the looming came to Eastton. Shippers complained that the railroads were charging too much for transporting crates of asparagus from Laurens, S. C., to Boston. They were paying thirty cents a crate. After a long hearing the Interstate Commerce Commission decided that seventy cents was about right. With a reduction of twenty cents a crate in freight rates the people may get asparagus at a cent a bunch less.

Fifty thousand persons in Pittsburg have joined the great boycott. Women have taken a hand in the fight. The General Phil Sheridan Circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., of Lodge G, have asked the men to aid them in the fight on high prices.

Prices Cut? Hardly.

Cities and towns of the middle West have adopted the crusade with avidity. It has spread as far South as Richmond, Va.

The price of meat has not been affected by the boycott. In Cleveland there was a reduction of three cents by the retailers, but this was because they could not afford to hold on to their supply. The wholesalers, however, have not cut the price one cent.

Within three days of the start of the boycott it has taken hold in twenty cities and hundreds of towns. Labor unions are the guiding spirits in almost every case. In the list now are Cleveland, with 50,000 boycotting meat; Kansas City, 50,000; St. Louis, 5,000; Des Moines, 5,000; and Omaha, some of Wilmington, Baltimore and Richmond are joining the movement, and Akron, Ohio, has started an Anti-Butter Club.

Efforts are being made to stop the spread of the boycott on the ground that the retailers now and the trusts are being hurt more than the trusts. Four thousand meat dealers signed the pledge, and 25,000 more are on the list in that city alone. With their families they make about 100,000 persons who will not eat meat.

President Hirsch of the Baltimore branch of the American Federation of Labor has issued an order for 40,000 butchers to join the movement, and it is said that 75,000 will be abstaining from meat before the week is over.

Another boycott has been started against butter and eggs. "Thirty-Cent Egg" clubs have been started in Cleveland and have spread almost as quickly as the anti-meat crusade. The idea has been taken up in Omaha and Milwaukee.

Detroit furnishes a most interesting object lesson. All the while the anti-meat crusade was in full swing the Detroit Free Press showed that while on the American side of the Detroit river 24 cents a pound for good cuts of beef, just across the Canadian line at Windsor, Ont., the same cuts averaged 16 cents, indicating not a cattle shortage but the exactions of a trust.

The Vegetable Wagon.

The New York Sun today publishes the following. It shows how the Meat Trust will win after all:

SMITH, Jones and Brown and Robinson,
They joined the movement sin-
Cerely. Each would boycott meat
Until the price should fall.

Smith resigned on the second day,
While mulling for the doves.
One man's dereliction none would care,
And so he passed unnoticed.

Jones felt that he could not be seized,
Despite his stanch heart.
And so left his caving mates
He meatly packed some meat.

Brown left a call for nitrogen
One month small enough would make.
Nor nuts nor eggs would fill the bill;
He ate a juicy steak.

Ten thousand Joneses, Smiths and Browns
All felt the selfsame way.
So for the profits of the trust
They made a banner day.

Thirty-Cent Egg Clubs.

In Baltimore the office workers are going in line with the Federation leaders, and it is expected that at least 75,000 will be abstaining from meat before the week is over.

Another boycott has been started against butter and eggs. "Thirty-Cent Egg" clubs have been started in Cleveland and have spread almost as quickly as the anti-meat crusade. The idea has been taken up in Omaha and Milwaukee.

Detroit furnishes a most interesting object lesson. All the while the anti-meat crusade was in full swing the Detroit Free Press showed that while on the American side of the Detroit river 24 cents a pound for good cuts of beef, just across the Canadian line at Windsor, Ont., the same cuts averaged 16 cents, indicating not a cattle shortage but the exactions of a trust.

The American Excess Of Good Living

The Principal Cause of the Great Prevalence of Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sent Free.

Man inhabits every part of the globe where civilization has progressed, he can be successfully resisted. Food is an important element in effecting this, and nature has provided for it accordingly. The colder the climate the more animal food and oils and fats are required; the warmer, a preponderance of vegetables and fruits is necessary in one's diet.

The whale-blubber of the far-dad Eskimo and the rice of the nude African are as much necessities of locality as blubber of the one and the indolentness exist in civilization. Thus, the diet in America and England is essentially different from that in Italy, Spain and Egypt.

The effects of universal communication are nowhere more obvious than on the luxurious table. To furnish the refined cuisine all climates, both sea and land, are laid under contribution, and the stomach is expected to digest, without assistance, everything that is put into it. Combining together such varied products, and the neglect of the relation between climate and foods, are very active causes of dyspepsia.

The heavy, substantial dishes of this climate accord badly with the thermometer at ninety degrees, and an inflexibility in regulating the kind and quantity of food is a cause of a large proportion of the ill health and stomach troubles among the English and Americans.

Thousands of people who have suffered from stomach troubles, and a general ill-health resulting therefrom, because of a badly regulated diet, and the ingesting of an excessive quantity of food at the table, have obtained speedy and permanent relief by means of a single dose of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal, or whenever any of the well-known symptoms of indigestion are present.

These powerful digestive tablets contain every element that exists in the stomach to digest the food, and in the exact proportion as found therein. They take the place of the natural digestive juices when the latter are deficient in quality or quantity, and do their work for them, removing the indigestion by digesting the food, and resting, strengthening and purifying the digestive tract.

There is no other digestive remedy on the market which has been found equal to Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets; none which is so rapidly and powerfully efficient, or which removes the discomfort, banishes stomach-pain, and relieves and cures all of the symptoms of dyspepsia and indigestion in so thorough and pleasant a manner as these marvelous little tablets, a single grain of which is capable of digesting 3,000 grains of any and every kind of food.

All persons who are annoyed with stomach troubles of any kind should use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which will remove such troubles in a very short time. Purchase a box from your druggist, and send us name and address for free sample. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

VEGETARIAN CAFES FLOURISHING HERE; SIGN OF BOYCOTT

Vegetarian and purveyors of cereal restaurants in Boston are doing the biggest business in their history because of the second to the anti-meat crusade. Though the anti-meat action has not taken toward cutting a boycott on meat in this city hundreds have expressed their sympathy for the movement and have decided to try a meatless diet.

Especially noticeable is the physical and mental appearance of the people who have taken to a meatless diet. There is a noticeable increase in the number of girls and young women in their dining rooms since the inauguration of the crusade.

WHITE SNAKE SCARES LYNN

LYNN, Jan. 21.—Laborers digging a cellar in Hoag's orchard, Lynnfield, were startled to see a big snake wriggling out of the ground. They fled in terror, but Contractor John Sheehan killed the reptile with a shovel. It was white and covered with brown spots.

Nothing like it grows in Massachusetts. A scientist said: "It's a 'pine' snake, the kind very common in southern Florida, and how it got up here is a mystery. It is not venomous. It is so docile that snake-charmers generally use it for exhibitions."

It is believed that the snake escaped from some circus. Hoag's cart is off Commercial street, and at the foot of the latter is the Western railroad station, where all circuses disembark.

GIANT SMOKE TALK FOR BOSTON BAKERS

In an attempt to add to the rapidly increasing membership of Boston Bakers' Union No. 7, a monster smoke talk is to be held in Bakers' Hall, No. 1125 Washington street, this evening, under the auspices of the New England Labor Conference of Bakers. Organized Union, with J. Jaeb, organizer and R. C. Schneider, president of the New England Bakers' District Council, are among those who will address the gathering.

LINER CAMERIAN IN THREE DAYS LATE

The Leyland liner Camerian reached Boston today three days late. She left London with a valuable cargo on Jan. 6 and was one here Jan. 18. The steamer had a trying voyage. Captain Gardner says the worst experience of the whole trip across came from the blizzard which swept over Boston last Friday. The Camerian got in Saturday. The wind blew with terrible force and incessantly, while the driving snow made it impossible to see ahead. The liner was then three days behind her time.

BRADLEY NOT OUT FOR HEAD OF G. A. R.

Past Department Commander J. Payson Bradley will not be a candidate for Commander-in-Chief of the G. A. R. at the National encampment to be held in Atlantic City this year. In a communication read to Dahlgren Post at its meeting this week this decision was announced:

"Colonel Bradley states that his business responsibilities preclude his considering the possibility at this time."

IF YOU WON'T EAT MEAT, TRY THESE

Biscuit.

To fry biscuit for breakfast, a light rolled bread dough is made over night, as for any kind of bread. The dough is rolled out in the morning, but with a biscuit cutter, set aside for fifteen minutes, rolled again lightly, and fried in deep fat. The same biscuit fried on a hot griddle will make delicious muffins. A regular soda biscuit mixture may be used in the same way to make fried biscuit.

Hoecake.

Old-time Southern hoecake is not difficult to make. A pint of Indian meal is seasoned with a teaspoonful of salt and enough boiling water added to it to make it of the consistency of cream. A piece of butter the size of a nutmeg is browned in a pan, and on this pan the Indian meal mixture is spread thin and then baked in a hot oven.

Rice Pone.

Another Southern dish is a rice pone, which is made of two cupfuls of boiled rice, and is seasoned with a teaspoonful of salt, three-fourths of a cup of corn meal added and three tablespoonfuls of melted butter. These are beaten together with two cupfuls of milk, to which has been added three well-beaten eggs. The pone should be baked in a shallow, well-greased pan in a hot oven.

To Cook Prunes.

A delicious way to cook prunes is to put them in a covered earthenware dish with a little water and very little sugar, and bake them in the oven until tender. A dash of some liqueur, benedictine by preference, will improve them.

PENNY GAMBLER IS DIVORCED

Samuel Mudow of Revere, who was today summoned into the Suffolk County Divorce Court by Judge King admitted his wife's allegation that he was a gambler, but qualified the attachment by declaring that the limit of all games he played was two cents. He decided that he was a piker.

Mrs. Mudow was called to the stand by Judge King who asked her several questions. She said her husband got only $18 a week, but that he would not only spend a large part of his salary playing poker but that he borrowed money from his brother and gambled it away. She said she caught her husband playing cards with eight men one Sunday and that a lot of money was piled on the table.

She also said that her husband spent money on another woman.

Judge King granted a decree nisi in Mrs. Mudow's wealthy husband.

SACO MAN CAUGHT AFTER LONG CHASE

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—In the arrest of Joseph C. Lajoie, 39 years old, the police say they have run to earth one of America's cleverest swindlers and gilt-edged confidence men. Lajoie, who has published either a clothes beginning at Saco, Me., boarded the Minneapolis express here back to Burlington, Vt., from there to Milwaukee and from Milwaukee to Chicago, according to the detectives. They say he went to Saco in April, a year ago, with a partner. Soon after their arrival they announced the would open a large department store. They advertised for credit with nearly 100 large Eastern firms, and soon after they had started the pair are said to have sold it out for $60,000, but overdrawing their accounts in banks for almost $9,000. Then they disappeared.

FISH FALL OFF THE WATER WAGON

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—A lot of fish in Jamaica Bay yesterday "on the water wagon" feeling today, as 1,000 gallons of booze were yesterday thrown into the bay by the police.

The liquor was seized in Summer hotels during the Winter license on the "Wet" from Jamaica Meddow.

CELEBRATED 70TH WEDDING DAY

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Cara Shoemaker, ninety-two, and his wife, eighty-eight, celebrated the seventieth anniversary of their wedding here. They have six children, twenty-two grandchildren and twenty-seven great-grandchildren.

GIRL WINS WILL FIGHT.

Miss Martha M. Atkins will receive half of $10,000 left by her mother, Mrs. Margaret N. Atkins of Boston, according to a decision of the Supreme Court made today. Mrs. Atkins died in New York. Under the law of that State her husband, Edward Atkins of Michigan, would receive the $5,000. The Massachusetts Supreme Court has decided that the dispute over which law shall govern by holding in favor of the Massachusetts law, which divides the estate between father and daughter.

Charming Wife of Noted Writer Who Asks Divorce

Mrs. Richard Harding Davis, Sketched by Artist Perley.

Mrs. Richard Harding Davis, wife of the famous newspaper correspondent and short story writer, is soon to join the divorce colony at Reno, Nevada, preparatory to the institution of divorce proceedings against her husband.

Mrs. Davis, before her marriage, was Cecil Clark, the daughter of a Chicago telephone magnate. Like her husband she writes and draws. She is also athletic.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis were married on May 4, 1905, having been chums since childhood. The ceremony took place in the little St. Gabriel Chapel at Marion, where Mr. Davis has a beautiful Summer home. For the past few years the couple have not lived together although on friendly terms and recently agreed to disagree.

The proposed trip West of Mrs. Davis was intimated by her lawyers. It is said that Mr. Davis will take a trip West also.

DEER HERD IN WEST ROXBURY

There was a slightly herd of deer within the city limits today in the great arboretum in Mt. Benedict Cemetery in West Roxbury. Mr. Lawler was going about his duties when he saw the animals. They were coming out of the hill where the ground is bare, and he counted six in sight at once. One seemed to be a yearling buck, and the others, which were mostly does, were smaller. It is believed that the deer were driven into the forest-covered hills of the cemetery by civilization, and that they were finding sufficient grass in the arboretum to settle down, thinking about three today.

ARBITRATORS FOR SWITCHMEN'S STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Chairman Knapp of the Interstate Commerce Commission also said today that the Chicago railroads have selected Carl R. Gray, vice president of the Union Pacific, and E. St. Francois Rathbone, son of S. E. Rathbone, vice-president of the Southern Pacific, as arbitrators to settle the differences regarding the switchmen's demand for increased wages. These arbitrators will have five days in which to select a third arbitrator.

BOSTON COUPLE MARRY IN NASHUA

NASHUA, N. H., Jan. 20.—Walter M. Farley of Boston and Miss Mabel E. Overton of Brighton came here today, procured a marriage license and were married by City Clerk Dwight W. Freeman of Salem and Miss Beatrice Lowe of Beverly were witnesses.

BREAK IN RUTLAND SQUARE DRUG STORE

Thieves broke into the drug store of Coleman & Donovan, Rutland square and Tremont street, at 4 a. m. today and stole cigars, perfumery, soap and toilet articles worth $30. The large plate-glass door of the store was smashed.

BURNED IN BOAT FIRE.

In attempting to extinguish a fire on the Eastern Steamship Company's boat, the City of Bangor, to-day, Edward W. Wallace, a painter, of No. 481 Main street, Malden, was burned about the face and hands. He was taken to the East Boston Relief Hospital. The fire started when a spark fell in a can of paint. The damage was $60. The Bangor is tied up at Lockwood's Wharf, East Boston.

FITZ SPENT NEARER $25,000 THAN $125,000

Napoleon Fitzgerald declared today that his campaign expenses will be nearer $25,000 than $125,000. He is confined to his home in Dorchester to-day by a cold. Seen there, he said:

"As soon as I can get downtown and gather up every outstanding bill, I shall file my campaign expense schedule. This schedule will show not alone my own contributions to the fund, but how every dollar of the fund was spent. The amount spent on my campaign is far below the $125,000 which has been claimed. It is nearer $25,000."

Mr. Fitzgerald says that he wants to talk over with the members of the new Council such questions as where the body will be seated in City Hall, the probable officers, and any changes in the office force of the City Government.

The inauguration takes place at City Hall on February 7.

RECORD IN BOOT AND SHOE EXPORTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Exports of boots and shoes from the United States in the year 1909 were the largest on record, having aggregated 6,750,000 pairs, compared with the previous high record of 6,335,000 pairs in 1907. Measured by value, however, the year just ended fell slightly below those of two years earlier.

NEW ECZEMA REMEDY

Stops Itching at Once.

The new remedy Cadum has astonished the medical world. Many cures of eczema and other distressing skin diseases are reported, and the remarkable feature in most cases is the quickness of the cure. Eczema is not a blood disease, but a skin affection, cannot be cured by internal medicines. External treatment is absolutely necessary. Since the introduction of Cadum eczema is now recognized as a curable disease, and that tormenting affliction has been robbed of its terrors. Cadum stops the itching at once and begins the healing process with the first application. It destroys disease germs, allays inflammation and is soothing and healing to the skin. From the moment it is applied to any skin trouble immediate relief is felt. In fact pimples, blotches, hives, tetter, itch, acne, herpes, scaly skin, psoriasis, rash, chafings, eruptions, sores, scurvy, scabs, blackheads, itching piles, etc. Trial box 10c.; large box 25c.; all druggists.

SYRIAN SELLS DAUGHTER FOR $700 AS BRIDE

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Jan. 21.—Elias George Nijfee sold his beautiful dark-eyed eighteen-year-old daughter to John Azore Eldeeb, twenty-one years old, for $700. When Eldeeb claimed his property, Elias refused to make good. Today Judge C. H. McFee made Elias give back the money.

It was a business-love deal. Eldeeb had saved some money and decided it was time to marry. The fair young Miss Nijfee took his fancy and he asked Papa Nijfee for her hand. Papa Nijfee haggled over the price until they finally agreed that $700 was about right. It was a lot of money for young Eldeeb, but he took another look at the girl and decided she was worth the price.

Eldeeb counted out the currency. But then Papa Nijfee began to doubt. He thought maybe his priceless daughter was going too cheap. While he was making up his mind he kept standing off the anxious suitor.

Finally Eldeeb decided he was likely to lose both money and girl and applied for an order for arrest. After the two Syrians had been in conference with the judge, Eldeeb carried home his money and Nijfee took his daughter back to his parental hearth.

"Better Than Any Medicine"

Grippe Cured and Her Health Restored

MRS. JENNIE GIBSON, 58 YEARS OLD.

Thus wrote Mrs. Gibson of Harrells, Ala., who now enjoys good health after she had been a constant sufferer from grippe for years.

"I was 68 years old the 22nd of July. My health had been bad for several years, caused from grippe, and I find that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey does me more good than any medicine I have taken. I have been using it for nearly a year, and wish that I had known of it years ago. It is the best tasting whiskey I ever used. I recommend it to all my ailing friends, and I expect you will get several orders from here some time soon. The Lord bless you for your charitable act, as your great kindness in building me up will be a great help. I am a poor widow with one daughter and we sew for our living."

Mrs Jennie Gibson

Ministers of the gospel, doctors of medicine, nurses and people everywhere unite in commending Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey—the only perfect tonic stimulant, the one true medicinal whiskey.

PLAN CANADIAN LABOR LAW IN THE BAY STATE

The Massachusetts Association in Favor of a Law for the Investigation of Industrial Disputes, by its secretary, Myron E. Pierce, has presented its bill for the application of the Canadian law to Massachusetts, drawn by its legislative counsel, Robert Luce. The bill provides at the outset for replacing the present Board of Conciliation and Arbitration by a State Board of Labor, whose duty it shall be "to aid in securing industrial peace," by investigation or arbitration, as the disputants may elect. To that end it is to be unlawful for employers to lock out their men, or for employees to strike, before the dispute has been investigated.

The employer who declares a lockout before having the dispute investigated, is to be fined not more than $10 a day for each employe locked out, and not less than $100 for each day of the lockout. The employe who goes on strike without first resorting to a board of investigation may be fined up to $50 a day. Anybody who incites either employer or employee to lock out or strike before investigation may be fined up to $1,000.

Employers and employes alike shall give at least thirty days' notice of an intended change affecting conditions of employment or with respect to wages or hours. The party unwilling to accept such a change is to apply for a Board of Investigation. This may consist of the State Board of Labor itself, if the parties so agree, or it may be a special board of three members, one to be named by each side, and the two thus named to choose a third, or if they cannot agree on as to be named by the State Board. Members of the State Board may be named for special boards, and the chairman of the State Board is to serve as the chairman of special boards when he is acceptable and can act.

HIBBARD WILL LOSE FIVE DAYS' SALARY

Mayor Hibbard, members of the Board of Aldermen and Common Council, and the heads of certain departments, will lose five days' pay under the new city charter.

For Mayor Hibbard, who gets about $27 daily, it will mean a loss of $130. The street commissioners will drop about $50 each, and so on down the list of those affected. No remedy is in sight. No provision was made in the new city charter for the extra five days in February when carries the labors of the mayor and both branches of the City Council up to Saturday, February 5.

RECOUNT FINISHED; STORROW GAIN, 13

The recounting of the votes cast in the recent municipal election has been completed. The general results were not changed. James J. Storrow was found to have had thirteen more votes than were credited to him election night, and John F. Fitzgerald's plurality for Mayor finally stands at 1,462. Mayor George F. Hibbard gained six votes, and his total vote is shown to have been 1,814. The count of the ballots for N. H. Taylor was not changed, and his record stands at 615.

NEW COMET IS AN ENTIRE STRANGER

Apart from the fact that it has been ascertained that the new comet which has been so conspicuous for the past few nights is an absolutely new addition to astronomical knowledge, nothing has been learned of the celestial visitor at the Harvard observatory. No photographs could be taken, owing to the cloudiness of the southwestern skies just after sunset.

SCRATCHED SO SHE COULD NOT SLEEP

Child of Two had Masses of Eczema Over Face, Head and Body—They Took Her to the Best Doctors and Tried Salves and Medicines in Vain—Suffered for Five Years.

SOON RELIEVED AND CURED BY CUTICURA

"I write to tell you how thankful I am for the wonderful Cuticura Remedies. My little niece had eczema for five years and when her mother died I took care of the child. It was all over her face and body, also on the head. She scratched so that she could not sleep nights. I used Cuticura Soap to wash her with and then applied Cuticura Ointment. I did not use quite half the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, together with Cuticura Resolvent, when you could see a change and they cured her nicely. Now she is eleven years old and has never been bothered with eczema since. My friends think it is just great the way the baby was cured by Cuticura. I send you a picture taken when she was about eighteen months old.

"She was taken with the eczema when two years old. She was covered with big sores and her mother had all the best doctors and tried all kinds of salves and medicines without effect until we used Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. H. Kiernan, 663 Quincy St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 27, 1909."

For thirty years Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have afforded speedy relief to tens of thousands of skin-tortured and disfigured sufferers from eczemas, rashes, itchings, irritations and chafings, from infancy to age, bringing comfort and peace to distracted households when all else failed. Guaranteed absolutely pure and may be used from the hour of birth.

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Cuticura Ointment (50c.) and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 135 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass.

DEATH SUSPECT MAY BE CRAZY

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 21.—An exhumation of Ernest Wilhelm Lorenz, held for the murder of Gilbert Mann, is to be made so as to settle all doubt. The stories he has told about his attacks on girls led the police to believe that they have either the worst criminal that ever appeared in this section of the state or a man who is demented.

While the young man strenuously denies that he had any hand in the murder of Laura E. Register, the police believe that he was connected with the crime.—Advertisers' Magazine.

$5,000,000 TO FIGHT SALOONS

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—John D. Rockefeller, according to a report from Norfolk, Va., has secretly given $5,000,000 to help fight the saloon. Part of the money is to be used in establishing newspapers in rural sections, among them being Virginia, Florida and Washington.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., refused to-day to deny or affirm the report.

BATTLE BEGUN NEAR MANAGUA

COLON, Jan. 21.—The fleet bombarding the decisive battle between the Nicaraguan insurgents and the Madriz government forces has begun, and the main battle will begin to-morrow. Madriz has dispatched two battalions to Acompal to reinforce the army just west of there, on the road to Managua. The advance of the rebels from the town is under way. The Managua government is believed to have underestimated the strength of the insurgents.

HEAVY RAIN STORM IS DUE

Unless the rain storm that is being driven northeast over Virginia up the Atlantic coast loses some of its speed before it strikes here, to-night, Boston and vicinity will have the heaviest rain storm of the season.

The weather bureau at Washington today ordered out storm warnings from the Delaware breakwater to Eastport, Me., to the effect that a storm is being driven northeast at a high rate of speed over Virginia.

The local weather bureau sent out the following warning: "Heavy rain to-night along the Atlantic coast and over New England probable snow flurries. Clear and cold to-morrow."

WHAT! CITY RECORD POOR AD. MEDIUM?

The constituency of Representative Tom Vinson of Ward 20 should take that young gentleman in hand. He has made a severe attack upon the rights of that glorious palladium of liberty, the City Record.

Mr. Vinson has gone so far as to file a bill providing that all advertisements of property to be sold for unpaid taxes shall not appear exclusively in the City Record, but that they shall be printed also in the Boston daily newspapers.

Tom's idea seem to be that the reason for advertising such things is to have the people of the city learn about them. This is a serious reflection upon the circulation manager of the City Record, a paper that you will find at every fireside in the land.

"There are many more in Boston who would just as soon do without their cream of oats in the morning as their City Record. Its circulation is particularly large in Brookline and Melrose Highlands, while it has a large advertising list in Somerville.

A reporter called upon Jimmy White, the veteran city reader, typesetter and make-up man of the City Record, to-day, to get an interview on this blow that is being struck at his paper. Mr. White was busy upon an obituary notice of some kind.

"That man Vinson," began Jimmy White, "is planning the downfall of Boston's greatest newspaper. Didn't I go here to New York and expend $100 at Andy Horn's to learn how to run the City Record of Boston to get all this money back if it doesn't pay and if the city does not advertise?"

"But, Mr. White, who reads the paper?" articulated the reporter.

"Tut, tut, son—likewise, fudge! Who reads it? I read it and I read it every day for it. Take that buck and hand it to your city editor just like that. Copy you'll get in response to this call Mr. White got up and carried his copy to the composing room.

Mr. Vinson has been cut off the free list of the City Record.

HELD IN $800 BAIL IN LARCENY CASE

Judge Parmenter, in the Municipal Court to-day, found probable cause in the case of David Spevack of No. 98 Leverett street, charged with the larceny of $2,000 worth of pressing machinery, and the defendant was committed in default of $800 bail. Spevack had keys to the tailoring establishment conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth Fleshner at No. 72 Salem street, and the police charge him with driving to the store in the night and hauling away a wagonload of machinery.

3 MORE SMALLPOX CASES DISCOVERED

WAKEFIELD, Jan. 21.—Three new cases of smallpox were discovered in the infected districts of Stoneham, Reading and the west side of Wakefield, and the patients were taken to the contagious hospital to-day. The new victims are: Mrs. Ray White of Albion street, Wakefield; Mrs. Alice Fraughton of Foundry street, Wakefield; Arthur Leonard, corner of Herson and Wright streets, Stoneham. The number of cases already reported totals thirty-four.

EIGHT SUSPECTED OF BEHEADING WOMAN

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Eight men and women were under arrest when Coroner Hoffman began an inquest to-day into the death of Mrs. Jennie Cieghorn, the woman who was beheaded by her murderers. The police hardly expect to fasten the crime on any one until they have in custody three other men now being sought. One of these wrote the victim a letter announcing a proposed visit. That missive was found in her room.

DEPORT TURK WHO FAVORS POLYGAMY

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Ali Hassan, a young turk, arrived here from the Mediterranean on the steamship Oceanic. Asked if he believed in polygamy, he replied that he certainly did believe in it and it was not contrary to his religious belief. He added that he was not married himself and did not want even one wife. The case was ordered deported, but his case will probably be appealed.

COAL MINE FLOODED; SEVERAL ARE DEAD

EDINBURGH, Jan. 21.—Many miners were trapped and several killed when the Polton collieries were flooded this afternoon. Hands of rescuers were hurried to the spot, but finally established relief work. All who survived in the disaster had many narrow escapes. The water rushed into the pit with terrific force, driving all before it and sweeping supports away in some of the levels.

$34,000,000 COAL MERGER IN SOUTH.

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 21.—A $34,000,000 coal merger is being planned in the bituminous fields of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Kentucky. Options have already been secured by Harrison B. Smith, representing the Guggenheim interests, on 80 per cent. of the immense New River district of 200,000 acres.

WALSH SERIOUSLY ILL; IN HOSPITAL

LEAVENWORTH, Jan. 21.—John R. Walsh, the convicted Chicago banker, is ill in the prison hospital. He is suffering from heart disease and his liver is also in bad condition, the physicians say. He is past seventy-two years, counts against him, and it is feared that the shock of his imprisonment may result seriously.

City Hall Notes

Eddie Hopkins of South Boston, who managed Fitzgerald's successful campaign of two years ago, is slated for a position as first assistant in the assessor's office under the new administration. Hopkins is a South Boston real estate dealer and usually well known athletic circles. The salary is $1,000 per year.

Eddie Moore of Charestown, who was commander-in-chief of the Fitzgerald rooters, will be placed in the Mayor's office as messenger, according to information from sources close to the Mayor-elect.

A City Hall rumor that has all the earmarks of being authentic has it that Superintendent of Streets Emerson has been asked to remain in his present position under the new administration, and that he has agreed to stay. The superintendent is in New York to-day and none of those who are in a position to know are denying the statement.

CITY CHAIRS SAFE FOR ONE MORE WEEK

Has anybody here seen Kelley—K-E-L-L-E-Y? Has anybody here seen Kelley? Find him, if you can. He's got a chair and a desk to boot. All a part of the City Council loot. Has anybody here seen Kelley—Kelley of Ward Thirteen?

The "goo-goos" of the Common Council are singing this pleasing ditty to-day. They are also congratulating each other that City Hall is firmly fastened to its foundations in School street. Also that the doors and windows are too narrow to permit anything bigger than light furniture to be passed out.

Kelley is a man with an idea. He believes that the memory of the old Common Council, now happily nearing the end of its existence, ought to be graven forever on the hearts of its late members. What better way than to take some the chairs and desks?

For Pleasant Memories.

"In future years," says Kelley, "they would revive pleasant memories of our service together. I for one would like to sit in my chair after my day's work and think over old times."

"Oh, memories of the happy days! The days of generous loan bills, of free budges, of stone crushers with $1,000 bills attached, of free "hak books" and of all the other things dear to a statesman's heart!

So Kelley has moved that when the "ungost" that's Kelley's own words Common Council goes out of existence, the members carry home their desks and chairs. The council agreed to the plan.

"It would only excite criticism," says Councilman Morgan. "The public is only too eager to accuse members of the city government of grabbing everything in sight."

Some Other Suggestions.

"Might take the ink wells, ink and blotters," says Councilman Burroughs, sarcastically.

"Need a carpenter and saw to help out," seeing as the desks are built together, says Councilman Goodrich.

"Better take a slice of the floor and carpet and a block of surrounding atmosphere," is Councilman Harding's suggestion.

Kelley suggests that if anybody has scruples he can pay for the property. The furniture will be sold for another week, though, because Councilman Morgan has insisted that the auction be postponed.

TAFT URGED TO SAVE NAVY YARD TOILERS

With less than 500 men employed at the Charlestown Navy Yard to-day as against the 1,500 working there two weeks ago, and that number rapidly being reduced through the alleged discrimination of the authorities at Washington against the local yard, the men at Charlestown to-night charge the present administration with playing politics in sending ships to Norfolk, Va., for repairs that should be repaired in Boston.

Resolution from Machinists' Union, 264, were forwarded to-day to Washington, requesting more money for the Charlestown Navy Yard. The Pattenmakers' Association has sent its business agent, St. Clair M. Lent, to the capital, and he to-day is trying to induce President Taft himself to stop this alleged discrimination. The men declare that if their jobs members are not reinstated they will appeal to the Chamber of Commerce.

When the yard whistle blew this noon just one man and an apprentice walked out of the responsible shop for their noon day meal, that being all that remained of the force employed there one week ago. Last night eighty-one machinists were laid off in the engineering department.

In proof of their claim that Boston is being discriminated against the men say that the south cruisers Salem and Birmingham, with Boston as their home port, were sent to Norfolk to be repaired, contrary to all precedents in the Navy Department. The work on these two vessels alone, they say, would have kept 3,000 skilled mechanics at work for eighty days. While hundreds are being discharged, the battleship Illinois is still in dry dock awaiting repairs.

TWO ARE HELD IN AN OVERCOAT CASE

Coleman Foley of No. 44 B street, South Boston, and Herbert Lakeman of No. 282 Ninth street were held in $500 for the Superior Court when arraigned before Judge Dalton to-day on a breaking and entering charge. Broadway station police say the men broke into the home of George Mirabella at No. 90 B street and stole an overcoat and $34 in cash. The police say they recovered the overcoat and $26 when the men were arrested.

ROOSEVELT'S WOMAN FOE IS INVENTOR

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Ida M. von Clausen, remembered for her brief but bitter war upon Minister Storer, who refused to present her to King Oscar of Sweden, has made application for a patent upon an "automatic air cushion balance for newspaper plates." After Minister Storer had declined her to the throne, she appealed to President Roosevelt and was rebuffed. Her pamphlet, "Forget It," was decidedly anti-England and France because of its caustic criticism of President Roosevelt.

GROWING GIRLS NEED RED BLOOD

Pallor and Lack of Blood Should Be Corrected to Secure Proper Development.

The pallor and lack of blood so often noted in the cases of school girls, as well as young girls employed in stores and factories, if not corrected by proper tonic treatment, may reasonably be counted upon as a source of sufferings and annoyance until the age of forty is reached.

If indicates a lack of blood and with the blood deficient the growing girl can not properly develop. It is a time when good red blood is urgently needed and the fact cannot be too strongly impressed upon parents.

The disease is easily recognized by the yellow-green pallor, breathlessness and palpitation of the heart upon the least exertion, and sometimes, but not always a tendency to faintness. The one remedy perfectly adapted for the cure of this condition, is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mrs. H. D. Grant, of Milton Mills, N. H., whose husband is a physician, says: "When about twelve years of age I began to decline in health and at last became so weak that I could not walk across the room without taking hold of something to steady myself. I don't know what was the cause of my sickness unless I played too hard and grew too fast. I was very large for my age but extremely pale. I had headaches almost constantly and the only way I could sleep was by taking some sedative. I could not walk upstairs without my knees trembling. My appetite was poor and capricious. My heart seemed to be in my throat at times and I fainted frequently. During this time I suffered from weakness common to my sex.

"I was treated by three physicians for anemia but was given up by them and as a last resort tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I didn't have any faith in them at first but I took them regularly and soon realized that they were doing me good. I gained in strength and weight, my appetite returned and I am now in good health."

Dr. Grant added: "My wife is a well woman today. She has a good appetite, sleeps well and does her work without any assistance."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

NO RAILROAD STRIKE LIKELY, SAYS MORRILL

No headway was made to-day in Boston and New York to settle the differences between the railroad conductors and trainmen and the Eastern railways. A committee of N. E. M. & H. employes conferred with General Manager Higgins at New Haven, but officials of the road, although saying that negotiations would probably cover a long period, said that the prospect of the company agreeing to raise wages was slight, especially as wages were not reduced in 1908.

Committees of Boston & Albany and Boston & Maine employes were in conference with officials of those roads in this city all to-day, but progress was slow. The conferences, however, were amicable.

Ask Millions in Increase.

In New York, President W. C. Brown of the New York Central said that the increased wages demanded by the employes of that road would mean an additional annual outlay of $1,750,000. The same ratio of increase for all employes would mean $25,000,000.

The Central, he said, increased annual wages $2,000,000 two years ago "and," he said, "another increase of that sum or any like it, is unreasonable."

Superintendent E. W. Huntington of the Central Railroad of New Jersey told a committee of his road's employes: "If you take nothing but the Boston proposition to offer, you may just as well put on your hats and leave."

Erie employes met Superintendent Stewart. The Long Island Railroad offered a raise of five per cent. to all its employes.

"The prospect of a strike is very remote," said B. H. Morrill, chairman of the Boston & Maine labor adjustment committee, to-day. "The most harmonious relations exist. It will take two or three weeks of meetings before an adjustment can be reached."

Old Agreement Continues.

The men continue their work under the old agreement, which really expires to-day, but there is a clause that makes it hold good until a new agreement is reached. It is believed that an amicable settlement of the trouble will be made in a few days.

In discussing the situation, Mr. Morrill said:

"The flat refusal of the management of the Boston & Albany to grant our demands does not mean that a strike will follow. In fact, we expected to meet with just such a refusal from this road and from all the other roads.

The Boston & Maine has posted a new schedule of working hours for its station men. While no increase of pay is carried by it, the arrangement of the hours, with days off and by-offs, are said to be more advantageous to the men than those which have hitherto prevailed. It is rumored that the station men are soon to receive an increase of 5 per cent. in wages, but this cannot be verified.

LAUD MEMORY OF DEAD BISHOP

Boston Central Branch of the United Irish League has adopted the following resolutions on the death of the late Bishop John Brady, auxiliary bishop of Boston:

"The Boston Central Branch of the United Irish League desires to record the grief, loss the cause of Ireland has suffered in the death of the Right Rev. John Brady, auxiliary bishop of Boston.

"His exalted virtues as priest and bishop set others proclaim—it is our duty to attest his preeminence as a patriot whose practical love for motherland was never forgotten in the midst of his great and exhausting spiritual labors.

"May his patriotic and salutify life have for us a double inspiration, and may his great soul, at rest with God, soon feel with us the long hoped for joy of Ireland free, happy and prosperous."

Resolutions of condolence were also passed by the families of the late Dr. P. F. Gavin of South Boston, the late William J. Burke of East Boston and the late Jeremiah W. Fogarty, who for many years was the respected secretary of the Charitable Irish Society.

NEW TURN IN BATHTUB CASE

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 21.—Fletcher W. Snead, husband of Mrs. Oecy W. Snead, the East Orange "bathtub mystery" victim, will return to this country from Canada to testify against his mother, Mrs. Mary Snead, who, during her two visits, is now under arrest at Newark, N. J., awaiting trial on a charge of having brought about the death of Mrs. Oecy Snead. This strange turn in the case developed to-day after Dr. William H. Hicks of Newark had submitted a report to Prosecutor Mott of Essex County, N. J., in which he said that the stomach of Mrs. Oecy Snead contained morphine at the time of her death.

Snead, it was declared to-day, is angry at the accused women and will take the stand for the State. That Oecy Snead was a drug fiend will probably be the contention of the defence.

W. J. BURKE'S FUNERAL.

A large crowd attended the funeral of William J. Burke of East Boston, late of the Assumption, East Boston. He was superintendent of streets from 1887 to 1899. Mass was said by Rev. J. V. Fitzgerald.

$15,000 NECKLACE FOR A DOG.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21.—Arthur Wallenhorst, a jeweler of this city, has made for his pet black and tan dog, "Trixie," a collar of diamonds valued at $15,000. This ornament, which is more in the nature of a necklace, contains about 700 stones varying in weight from a sixteenth to a full carat. The design is substantially made and arranged in such a way as to rest close to the breast of the canine.

BRINGS DEAD CHILD TO LIFE.

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., Jan. 21.—Dr. J. F. Calef restored to life a child who had been pronounced dead by other physicians. There was no perceptible heart action, and no sign of breathing. As the cause of death was not apparent, Dr. Calef made a hypodermic injection over the heart and started massage and artificial respiration. The color slowly returned to the child's cheeks, and at last it gave a feeble cry. Later it was fully restored.

$12,000 HEN'S EGG IS LOST.

WILKESBARRE, Jan. 21.—There was amazement at the Scranton poultry show when it was discovered that an egg laid by the $12,000 prize winning hen Lady Wonderful, had been stolen from the coop in which she is kept. It had been laid only a short time before. F. D. Hutchings, the owner of the hen, has offered a reward of $25 for the return of the egg and the police are searching for the thief.

TO LECTURE IN 17 TONGUES.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Jan. 21.—State Senator John D. Prince of Paterson, a professor of languages in Columbia College, has promised one hundred school people in Lodi that he will deliver a lecture in seventeen different languages on made to that room on night. The extensive dye works at Lodi have attracted nearly every known race to that place, and Senator Prince is prepared to make himself plain to all foreigners.

BIG EAGLES FIGHT FOR BABY

GIBSON, La., Jan. 21.—Two giant eagles that had plucked Rene Thibodeaux from a cradle and carried the babe to their nest in a live oak tree for a long time fought off a hundred men who attempted to rescue the child. Finally the angered eagles descended and attacked the men and were shot. In three hours the baby had died from exposure.

FIGHT WITH TURKEY FATAL.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 21.—Harry Colflesh aged sixty-one, is dead at North McKeesport as the result of a battle with a big turkey that Christmas eve. When Colflesh attempted to cut off the bird's head he missed the first stroke and in a struggle that ensued Colflesh was knocked down a distance of nine feet.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 21.—Mrs. Octave Chamberlain of Phoenix, who has given birth to her nineteenth child, is herself but thirty-eight years old.

URGING HONORS FROM MONARCH

That King Victor Emmanuel of Italy should recognize the work done among Italian immigrants in New York by Leiterio Mazzoli, president of Stone Masons' Union No. 74 of that city, is the sense of a resolution adopted at the Bricklayers and Masons International convention in Ford Hall and to-day sent to the Italian Ambassador at Washington and the Italian Government at Rome.

Mazzoli is forty-two years old and has been a resident of the United States eighteen years. He organized Local 74, which is composed wholly of Italian craftsmen in New York. His work among the Italian immigrants of all trades, especially in freeing men from the clutches of the dread padrone, has been commented on very favorably by the union men of that city.

Election of officers it is expected will take place to-day or to-morrow, in time to enable delegates to leave Sunday morning.

CRUISER FOR NAVAL RESERVE

The protected cruiser Chicago is expected in Boston Harbor to-morrow to serve as an armory and practice ship for the Massachusetts Naval Reserves. She will be anchored, it is believed, off North End Park and will be used by ten companies of militia sailors. She has accommodations for 600 of them on a cruise.

This United States warship was built by John Roach & Sons at Chester, Pa., and launched about twenty-four years ago. She was one of the first ships of what was then called "the new navy." Most all the warships then owned by Uncle Sam, except Monitors, were wooden. The cruiser was a specimen of the new style of ironclad and encountered one of the best of her class afloat. She first came to Boston with the squadron of Evolution as long ago as that time when Thomas N. Hart was first mayor.

MISSOURI MAN IS THE COUNTRY'S CHAMPION SHOT

CHAS. G. SPENCER.

The Interstate Association for the Promotion of Trap Shooting has just announced the official averages for 1909. They show that Charles G. Spencer of St. Louis, Mo., is still the leading shot of the country. He shot at 8,325 targets and scored 8,092, giving him an average of 97.20 per cent., the highest ever made.

When Spencer won the season's average for 1908 with a record of 96.77 per cent., it was not thought that it would ever be beaten; but his phenomenal shooting last year shows that he did not then reach the limit of his skill or of his equipment.

In all his shooting, Mr. Spencer used a standard grade Winchester repeating shotgun and Winchester "leader" and "Repeater" shells—regular stock loads the kind any shooter can buy anywhere.

ROCKEFELLER, Jr., AS A JOB HUNTER

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—"Are you looking for a job?" This question was put to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., by one of the doormen at the outer portals of Controller Prendergast's office. Mr. Rockefeller, as foreman of the grand jury investigating the so-called "white sleave" traffic, wanted to see the Controller regarding the expenses of some special investigation. "Well—well, no! I don't think I am," replied Mr. Rockefeller. "Please take this card to the Controller." Then it was for the head of the man to be upset. He stammered a feeble apology, but Mr. Rockefeller told him it was all right.

BOY ARRAIGNED ON BURGLARY CHARGE

Charged with burglary and with a charge of forgery hanging over him, James H. Geegan, the twelve-year-old son of Patrick Geegan of Grove street, Auburndale, was arraigned in the juvenile session of the Newton District Court to-day and placed under $500 bonds for a hearing to-morrow. He is the youngest prisoner ever arraigned on such a charge in the Newton Court. The boys was arrested in the residence of Mrs. David Farquar, No. 196 Woodland road, Auburndale, by Policeman Richard Goode, who was concealed within.

BANDIT CAPTURED WHILE PROPOSING

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Jean Argopf, alleged bandit, one of many aliases and reputed ringleader of the band of desperadoes that held up and robbed the private bank of Herman Korn at No. 1020 Manhattan avenue, Williamsburg, on January 3, and killed Korn's brother, was arrested to-day by Detectives Sciasia and Gilman, as he was proposing marriage to Lena Lopez, a pretty domestic at the Hotel Kensington. He was captured from information obtained from three members of the bandit gang indicted for the killing of Korn.

M'VEAGH IN GOTHAM TO CONSIDER BONDS?

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh left Washington to-day for New York. It was said at the department that he was going to New York for a rest from departmental duties, and will not return here until Wednesday. It is believed, however, that owing to the fact that he has been holding lengthy conferences with Representative Vreeland, chairman of the House Finance Committee, that his journy to New York may have to do with a prospective bond issue.

ESCAPE FIRE; WALK BAREFOOT IN SNOW

NEW BOSTON, N. H., Jan. 21.—After a heroic rescue from being burned to death in the fire which destroyed their home to-day, Roy Tilton, his wife and four-year-old child were obliged to walk through deep snow for half a mile in their night clothes to find shelter. Tilton lowered his wife and child through the window on a sheet and then jumped for safety.

LYNCHING CONDONED BY NEGRO BISHOP

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21.—"I do not blame mobs for lynching negroes in many cases," declared Bishop Lampton to the Methodist negro conference to-day. "I appeal to every negro to keep inviolate those lines of separation between the races, in public and in private, so that the mobs will have no excuse to wreak vengance upon my race."

FIRST FIGHT BEGUN ON CORPORATION TAX

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The first case to test the constitutionality of the corporation tax law as embodied in the new tariff was filed in the United States Supreme Court to-day by Maxwell Evarts of New York. The case originates in Vermont, and is Stella T. Flint against the Stone Tracy Company.

I WILL NEVER MAKE UP, SAYS MRS. CHRISTY

ZANESVILLE, Jan. 21.—Mrs. Howard Chandler Christy has gone to New York accompanied by Mrs. Willard C. Thomson, her sister-in-law. Any point to boarding the train she gave out this statement:

"The best proof of my innocence is that I came out here to Zanesville and faced the music. If I had been guilty of half the charges they alleged against me I would have shunned such a hearing. No guilty woman could look a horse such an ordeal.

"Since this thing has come up, my faith in mankind, and womankind for that matter, has been rudely shaken. True, I had suspected that Mr. Christy was a bounder toward at least, but I didn't think he or any one else for that matter, would enter into such a plot against any woman, much less his wife, the mother of his child.

"I alone am responsible for this condition. No one but I had a hand in that. And to-day I am not a bit surprised that he was drinking, how I pleaded and begged him to give up his vicious gallivanting and return to his former self.

"Speak to Howard Christy? No! I am through with him forever. I never have had the slightest inclination for a reconciliation.

"He didn't dare to go on the witness stand and try to defame me himself, but hired a negro and a couple of models to do it.

"The other of the artist $200 worth of diamonds Mrs. Christy says she never brought from New York for safe keeping were turned over to her following a conference of opposing counsel.

"The decision as to the custody of the child will probably be delivered on Monday."

HOTEL MAID FINDS $1,000 DIAMOND RING

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Within the short space of ten minutes a diamond and pearl ring, worth $1,000, was lost at the St. Regis Hotel, found, returned to its owner, and a reward paid. The ring was owned by Mrs. Joseph Parsons, who missed it while she was entertaining at luncheon. While Mrs. Parsons was searching for her ring in the main dining room, Bridget Cooney, an attendant, brought the ring to the office, saying that she had just picked it up in the corridor.

THINK SPRINGFIELD GIRL HAS HOOKWORM

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 21.—Physicians on the staff of Mercy Hospital in this city are studying closely what they believe to be the first case of hookworm reported in New England. The patient is Miss Louisa Ashmun of Hancock street, who they assert has been suffering for about a year with the disease. While they are not positive in their identification of the germs, they say that she has responded to treatment of the hookworm disease when all other forms of treatment have failed.

Let Unusual Sale Do It

As it has for many hundreds since its inception—save you the unusual sum of $5.50 or $4.11 on that suit or overcoat. That's why we call it "An Unusual Sale." It gives not only unusually big values at the biggest savings of the year, but it gives spic and span new clothing that came to us straight from one of New York's classy tailors not more than three weeks ago.

That's certainly unusual enough to talk about, isn't it? No other clothing store in Boston does it—We've got the knack of buying and selling down to a mere exact science—that's the reason for it.

$15 Suits $15 O'coats

There's this much about it—if you buy one of these $15 suits or overcoats at $9.50, you've got a strictly new garment with the very latest of kinks that fashion calls for. What's more, you've got a suit that will satisfy you to a dot—or you can get "Your money back if you want it." That's worth a whole lot in itself. Protector styles or fly front overcoats.

9.50

$18 Suits $18 O'coats

When you can save $4.11 on as nifty a looking suit or overcoat as these, it's certainly unusual. The truth is, they are the best ready-to-wear garments you ever saw—even superior to the average tailor-made. The overcoats are in the military collared protector styles, including the much advertised "Presto" coats, as well as in the regular fly front styles. The suits are made from high-class worsteds in single breasted styles.

BATTLING NELSON MEETS EDDIE LANG AT MEMPHIS TO-NIGHT

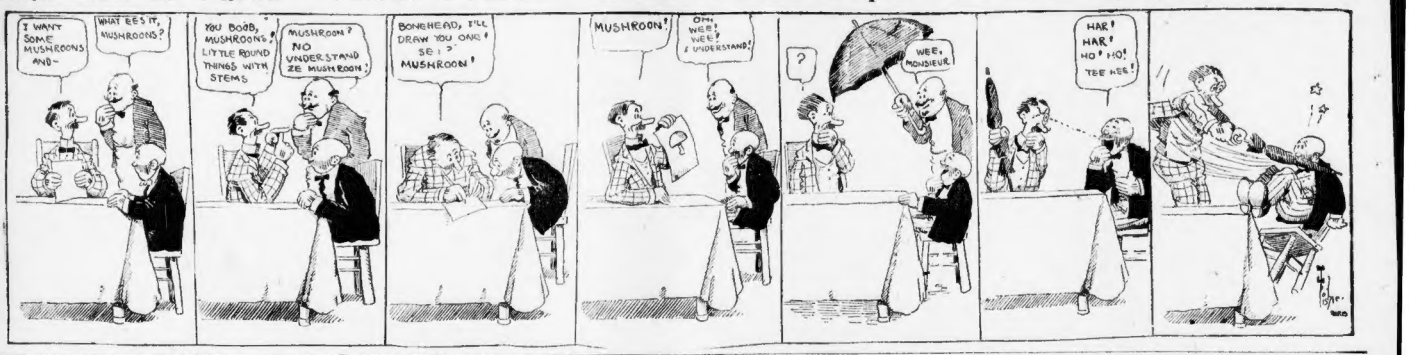
BIG AUTO EVENTS CARD FOR LOS ANGELES TRACK

With Mutt in Paris---Those French Waiters Are So Stupid at Times---By "Bud" Fisher



BAT NELSON FIGHTS AT NEW MEMPHIS CLUB

MEMPHIS, Jan. 21.—Memphis promises to play an important part in the fighting game from now on. With two well organized clubs in the field and competition worked up pretty well the fight fans of the Tennessee city are going to have some nice fighting plums handed to them.

"Doc" Hottum gets into the game tonight with a scrap in which Battling Nelson, lightweight champion of the world, will oppose Eddie Lang of this city in an eight-round contest. His club is called the Memphis A. C. and is provided with a new arena in the heart of the city with a liberal seating capacity. Tommy Ryan, retired middleweight champion, is the matchmaker.

This new organization is in direct conflict with Jim Kennard's and Paddy Carroll's old Phoenix Club of that city unless some agreement has already been reached between the two regarding dates and attractions.

But Hottum has been going ahead as if the Phoenix was not on earth at all and is booking up the best fighters obtainable. Following is his schedule so far arranged:

January 25—Battling Nelson, lightweight champion, vs. Eddie Lang, Kid Ryan vs. Eddie Green (10).

January 28—Fighting Bob Pyland vs. Phil Sheridan of Cleveland, Kid Brown of Chicago vs. Dan Ford (10).

February 11—Kid Brown of Indianapolis vs. Morris Bloop of Chicago or Joe Grigan of Chicago vs. winner of Brock-Hyland go, all lightweights.

February 18—Charley White of Chicago vs. Billy Allen of Kingston or Pat Dougherty of Philadelphia, both ringsides.

February 25—Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion, vs. Tony Caponi; Ronald Morton of Boston, Harbor vs. Jack Ryan of Chicago, middleweights.

This is a strong list of fights and the Phoenix will have to step lively in order to hold the centre of the stage which it occupied so long in Memphis.

SUB PLAYERS MUST REPORT TO UMPIRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—President Lynch of the National League has decided that in the future before a substituted player can actually be considered in the game, he must first report to the umpire, just as is done in football. The captain must report changes in the line-up, and for every omission he is to be fined $5.

It has been Lynch's impression that the rules covered this point, but on reading the playing code he discovered he was mistaken.

Jeffries Due at Salt Lake To-morrow With His Show

BATTLEGROUND OF FIGHT UP TO JEFF

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—Jim Jeffries will be in Salt Lake with his show tomorrow, and Tex Rickard and his actors are preparing to give the big fellow a royal reception. Who knows but that before they get through with Jeffries they may be able to convince him that Salt Lake is just the place to hold the Jeffries-Johnson fight. It stands to reason that Rickard and those close to him are in possession of some information of a reassuring character that It will not be polite to send out all over the wires at this time. Tex and his associates may take Jeffries into their confidence and convince him that Governor Spry's threats do not amount to a bill of beans.

In any case Jeffries should be in the position to deliver himself emphatically on the subject of the battleground by Saturday night. He will have heard all that Rickard and those who stand with Rickard have to say and he ought to be able to make up his mind as to which place offers the best advantages—San Francisco or Salt Lake.

Jack Gleason is just resting on his oars as it were. Although Gleason and Rickard are partners in the promotion of the greatest ring event of modern times there is manifestly a rift in the lute. Gleason has not heard from Tex since he arrived in San Francisco and from the way his independent spirit Jack has not tried to put himself in touch with his wealthy associates. Gleason believes that it remains for the two fighters to decide between Gleason and Rickard or San Francisco and Salt Lake. To this end, Jack will wait the coming of Jim Jeffries, who is expected in San Francisco in the first week of February.

"Jeffries, since the talk of the big fight first began, has relied on me to protect his interests," said Jack. "He knows that I have always had San Francisco in mind as my first choice of a battleground and I know that Jim has always hoped the fight could be pulled off here. Jeffries may feel unbosom himself to any extent in Salt Lake but anyone who understands his tempera ment will readily believe that he will rebel at the idea of getting at a place where there is likely to be official interference and kindred troubles. I think when Jeffries arrives in San Francisco it will not take him long to make up his mind that San Francisco is the place for the show."

"And how about Johnson?" was asked.

"Well, Johnson has faith in me and I am satisfied he will be content to fight in San Francisco when he finds that Jeffries favors such a course."

Gleason admitted that the prospect for a continuance of business relations between Jeffries and himself were not of the best. He thinks, however, that if Johnson and Jeffries decide to fight in San Francisco there will be little trouble in arranging to take over Rickard's interest in the match.

"We are partners and the forfeit is up in the name of Gleason and Rickard. If Rickard wishes to withdraw upon finding that the match is to fight in San Francisco, it will be easy enough to pay Jack Rickard the money he has up and then the articles will stand as they are written. There will be no change in the amount of the purse.

"We will be better able to tell what chances there are of the fight passing out as outlined by Gleason after Jeffries has passed through Salt Lake.

TEX RICKARD HAS FILM CONTRACTS OF OVER $300,000

SALT LAKE, Utah., Jan. 21.—That the controversy between Tex Rickard and Jack Gleason, the San Francisco promoter, has reached an acute stage, was made known by a close friend of Rickard, who intends to be the big gun in the Johnson-Jeffries fight, regardless of what Gleason may or may not try to do.

Rickard is determined to go ahead with his plans, which have reached a stage that already insures the venture being profitable, even without gate receipts. Contracts amounting to over $300,000 have already been placed for the pictures, while others are coming in at a rate that indicates that nearly $600,000 will be repressed in the moving pictures of the fight alone. "If Rickard gets no more, he's going mighty likely to at the roasting he is getting from Frisco. I'd never be surprised to see him declare to hold the fight under any circumstances and to go ahead with it even if he has to take it out in the bushes of Nevada. As things now stand he holds the whip hand, has the forfeits of the fighters and their contract with him makes him absolute in the selection of the battle ground. If they attempt to break the contract they will be tied up with injunctions, that's certain," said Rickard's friend.

"FIXED FIGHT," SAYS JOHN L., "IF JEFF WINS"

SANDUSKY, Ohio, Jan. 21.—John L. Sullivan broke his long silence here and gave his views on the coming Jeffries-Johnson fight. John L. says Jeffries can never come back and that the fight will be fixed if Jeffries wins.

"I speak from what I know of the game," says John L., "and I ought to know. I tried to come back, but couldn't. I lasted twenty-one rounds with Corbett and then gave out. It's the wind ing and dining that ruin the stomach, and the stomach counts in a fight. Willie Jeff has been wined and dined like the rest of us, he will never be able to do the battles we did when in our prime.

"I have one notion of this fight—it will be the picture that count, and to make these pictures valuable the white man must win. You don't suppose that the spectacle of a black man knocking out a white man will appeal to the white folks, who are the ones who support the fight picture shows? Johnson can never beat a good scrapper. Jeffries was a good scrapper in his day, but he will not be the man he was six years ago when he meets Johnson next July."

AUTO SPEED CARNIVAL ON LOS ANGELES TRACK

By J. C. KERRISON.

Positive dates have been set for the opening meet of the new Los Angeles Cal., board track motordrome and a sanction granted by the Contest Board of the A. A. A.—the first sanction to be granted under the new working agreement between that body and the Manufacturers' Contest Association. Seven days, April 8-9-10 and 12-13-14 and 17, are the dates selected for this biggest and most novel motoring speed carnival ever held and at which numerous world's records are expected to fall.

Work on the new track and cartage of lumber began this week and Jack Prince, the veteran board saucer builder, says he will have sufficient time to construct the motordrome carefully and have it in perfect shape for the inaugural. Differing from other courses in that it will be a perfect circle and mile in circumference and seventy-five feet wide with a twenty-five-foot banking all around, the track will be made of finest Oregon pine, the best wood for the purpose obtainable.

The project has made a hit with all the famous drivers because it will offer a delightful dangerous dry trouble-track racing's chief drawback, owing to the slight wearing effect wood will have upon rubber.

De Palma, Strang, Robertson and other well known pilots who have agreed to drive, declare that it will be possible for a fast car to go three hundred miles or so at high speed without stopping to change a single tire.

The legislative committee of the Professional Chauffeurs' Club of America has prepared a tentative draft of a motor vehicle law for the government of chauffeurs, the proposed measure embodying features of the English and French acts that provides for a chauffeur's license containing his photograph and signature. The club, which has been in existence for six years, has advocated a bill of this kind for some time. The bill would require chauffeurs to be citizens and would require chauffeurs to be citizens and would have three classes of chauffeurs—drivers of electric, steam and explosive engine cars. The committee believes that men having at least five years practical experience should be appointed as inspectors or examiners to pass on the qualifications of candidates for licenses.

The only way to revive a played out storage battery is to have it recharged without delay. A dry battery, on the other hand, weakens gradually, and in case of emergency there are several methods by which it may be renewed for the time being, sometimes slight adjustment of the tremble contacts will suffice or adjustment of the tremblers themselves or bring them a little closer to the magnetic core beneath them, or bending the spark plug points closer together to shorten the jump of the spark. Sometimes as an extreme measure the click may be dug from the tops of the coils and water poured in until they are completely saturated. Salt water is always preferable.

GIANTS' HOODOO TRADED TO REDS

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 21.—One of the biggest baseball trades of the Winter was closed by the Cincinnati and Philadelphia National League Clubs. The deal involves the trading of four pitchers, Philadelphia getting Robert Ewing and Jesse Barnes in return for Frank Corridon and Harry Coveleskie.

Ewing has been with Cincinnati since 1902. Barnes was brought from Hutchinson, Kas., last Fall.

GO SEE RACES ONWARD MARCH

There will be a matinee of the Dutcher Driving Club to-morrow at the Blue Hill avenue speedway, in which the star feature is the clash between the pacers Onward March, owned by Fred H. Bellows, and Go See, the property of A. S. Goshee. Bellows has announced that his stable has all the speed needed in handling the pacemaker over his worthy rival. On the other hand, the backers of Go See appear not a bit frightened at the result, betting favorable to their favorite.

Eight other events on the card, each promising excellent sport before the winner is found are Judge Green met defeat last week by Go See, now Major Parker, who declares that he is capable of taking the measure of the Charley King. This ought to be a good race.

Results of Boxing Bouts

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 21.—Willie Houck bested Johnny Mayo, another Philadelphia lad before the Lancaster A. C. Six rattling rounds being fought.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Jan. 21.—Paul Kelcher of Cleveland and Joe Gans of Johnstown fought 12 rounds here with honors even. Gans had the result in a scientific throughout.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Andy Parker of New Haven defeated Willie Seiger, the "iron man" of Hoboken in the star bout of 10 rounds at the Longacre A. C. Parker had all the better of the early part of the fight, but he tired in the last three rounds while Seiger became aggressive and had Andy hanging on at the end.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—"Tuk" Russell of Philadelphia, who has been out of the ring for some time, came back strong at the Olympic A. C. and defeated Jimmy Dolan of Trenton after 10 rounds of fast work. Tuk was the aggressor throughout the fight, and showed that he had not forgotten any of his old stunts.

ATLANTA, Jan. 21.—Jack Robinson of New York, a welterweight, outpointed Al Christensen, a local heavyweight, in a 10-round main bout here last night. Christensen towered over Robinson, but the latter's superior quickness and speed kept him in the lead all the way. Several times his big opponent had him in a corner, but he got out by pretty work. Neither suffered any great amount of punishment on the other.

QUEBEC, Que., Jan. 21.—There was a large crowd of sporting men out to see the fight between Johnny Glover of Boston and Bill Dufresne of Quebec, St.

A good fight was expected and the spectators were not disappointed. It was a hammer and tongs contest from start to finish, both men fighting for the best advantage, was certainly in Glover's favor by the fourteen rounds fifteenth rounds, as he had Dufresne going.

The fight was for fifteen round go and at the end of the last round the referee gave the decision in favor of Dufresne, much to the disgust of the majority of the sporting fraternity.

Glover hurt his right arm in the sixth round when he fell, which was considerable of a drawback to him during the remainder of the battle.

PAPKE AFTER WILLIE LEWIS

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—William Papke, the Illinois middleweight, will sail for Paris, France, on Saturday. Papke says he is practically matched to fight Willie Lewis on the other side and regards the match as an easy thing. He met Lewis in a six-round bout at Pittsburg last Fall and, in his opinion, was an easy winner. But Lewis has been spoiling for another battle ever since.

In a letter received here yesterday Lewis says his old enemy, Harry Lewis, with whom he was matched to fight in Paris on January 15, refused to leave this country but Willie expressed hope that Papke will soon be on the way. He declares that Tom Thomas, the English middleweight champion, has refused several offers to fight him and that Sam Langford has also offered an offer of $3,000 to meet Joe Jeanette in the French metropolis.

If Papke and Willie Lewis fight in Paris the former will have all of ten pounds the better of the weights unless Lewis insists upon 150 pounds ringside, in which event there will be nothing doing. Lewis has beaten a lot of third and fourth raters in France and England, but if he is willing to meet Papke on reasonable terms the latter promises to knock him out in big time. No love is lost between these scrappers.

TEX RICKARD GETS BIG CONTRACTS FOR FOR FIGHT FILMS

BAT NELSON SAYS JEFFRIES CAN'T GET BACK

By BATTLING NELSON.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Fighters never come back. There hasn't been an exception to this since the days of Figg, and say, by the way, Figg was some fighter.

This was the way Battling Nelson went about it to put Johnson to win from Jeffries, who has troubles of his own, in his cooling fight with Wolgast, and was not even inquisitive concerning the big negro's weight will. He thinks that he may be chosen to referee the fight of fights and for that reason does not want to express too many opinions on the outcome.

It was a hard matter to get an opinion on the heavyweight battle. He persisted in saying close-mouthed but leading questions brought out a few more reasons why Johnson should win. He said:

They have been accusing Johnson of being yellow. I would like to see any one prove a real case of raincheckiness against him. They say he quit when fighting Sandifer here in Chicago and in another fight in Galveston. I did not see either of the fights, however, and I am not going to believe that he came within a mile of giving evidence of quitting in the ring. He appears to be as certain of a victory over Jeffries as any one could have.

Jeff has been out of the ring nearly six years. In that time he has put on many pounds of fighting. That would go to show that he is not really suited to make the fighting game. A fellow has to keep his hand in the business to be right for long layoff makes a fellow forget part of the fine points of the game and in a long contest a fighter who uses all tricks will be left without doing himself justice.

Jeff has not lived the life of a sunday school teacher during the seven years he's been out of the ring and it is hard to see how he is going to last over the long route. If he does it should go near the limit one would think that Johnson will be the winner, but we must remember one thing and that is that Jeff is not an ordinary mab. He is the wonder of the game and has always proved the exception to the rule that has held good since Figg was whipping all comers with the aid of the cudgel in England.

A lot of people have been belittling the fighting ability of Johnson. Pierce's where they are wrong. This colored fellow is a grand fighter. He has fought seemingly under a pall at times, but he has won, hasn't he? What more can any one ask? He is a hard hitter, has a boxing-like head and is one of the cleverest boxers in the game.

TO SIMPLIFY THE BASEBALL PLAYING LAWS

President Ban Johnson of the American League seems determined to iron out the wrinkles of baseball phraseology. He has turned loose Secretary McKey and Assistant Secretary Flanner on the playing rule with a view to wording the clauses in better and less debatable style. At the special meeting of the joint rules committee in Pittsburg next Monday, Mr. Johnson will put his suggestions before the board.

Two rules have occasioned much trouble through various interpretations. These relate to the over-running of first base and the substitution of players.

The first observer writing specifies that a runner loses his exemption from being put out after over-running the base "if he runs in the direction of or attempts to return to second base instead of going to first base." The misunderstanding hinges on the word "attempt."

The late Harry Pulliam instructed his umpires to disregard the rule if a player made no attempt to advance, even if he turned around to the left, provided he stood on foul territory at the time. Ban Johnson always insisted on a literal translation.

To avoid a dispute in regard to substitutions the American League president will ask to have made necessary the instruction by the umpire, by manager or captain, of any substitution before it actually takes place.

Among the minor changes suggested is the scoring rules in that of charging all battery errors to the fielding averages. At present a wild pitch or passed ball is considered a fielding error only when such allows a player to come from third with a scoring run.

Secretary John A. Heydler of the National League, is of the opinion that the present rule governing an overthrow under ground rules is ambiguous. National League umpires last season interpreted this rule in various manners, causing a couple of protests from club owners.

STRAIGHT DOPE
FOR SPORT FANS

MEMBERS OF THE ARMORY CLUB who saw Pal Moore, the crack little Philadelphia bantam in action, and a few others who were not so fortunate, are hoping he will be brought here soon again. Henry Myers, the Charlestown boy who fought him to a draw, is also a prime favorite with local fans, and I don't see why Matchmaker Johnny Mooney doesn't take off his green kelly and get to work matching the youngsters again. It would be a drawing card. Long think of but one better with the little fellows as the principals, and that would be a match between Pal Moore and Jimmy Walsh.

TIERNEY'S BE CLASS IN LARGE gobs gathered to-night in Bunker's Hall, Charlestown, when the Jackson Juniors give their annual ball. I have not only been invited, but they have asked me to come, and while I am not in the best of condition need a little road work. I'm thinking it over and may step over there and post my forfeit before the day is over. Johnny Mooney has offered to lose me his fuzzy green kelly and if I can find evening clothes to match I'm liable to put on the bells on. Eddie Sherlin is to lead the grand march not as he is in the pink of condition, as to fight the fellow he expects to have no trouble in getting the decision. Within Britt Lavins will be to Eddie's corner, and will wear his principals colors while are lavender socks and a pink necktie. Joe has been studying some boxing rules in his day, and in a correspondence schools clear off the board, and says if his efforts don't win him a home, he will prepare for the next bout via wireless.

WHEN KETCHEL GETS OVER IN England in June to fight Tom Thomas, the middleweight champion of the island, he may find something on the other side that won't be very keen to cotton to. Ketchel admits that he is unable to make the middleweight limit, and he may get hooked into a corner before he will be able to get in the clinch above if he wants to earn home and British shekels or glory. Sam Langford, our own Boston brunette, is the heavyweight champion of England by virtue of his defeat of Iron Hague a little less than a year ago. Ketchel has been very successful in side-stepping Sam in his country, but in England they have a habit of making a man show and give up the gate. Ketchel may find himself in a position where he will have to do battle with Langford or acknowledge that he hasn't the goods. Ketchel may find himself in a position where he will have to do battle with Langford or acknowledge that he hasn't the goods. Here's hoping.

THERE'S A REAL GOOD BOY OVER in Philadelphia who will likely be seen in action in Boston before long. He is Tommy O'Keefe, and take it from me that he will give a good account of himself with most any of the 135-pound lightweights. He has beaten a number of such good youngsters as Harry Baker, Young Reeves, Jeanette Reeves, Jim Hirst, Young Nichols, Jack Gibson and Tommy Langdon. Having about cleaned up the Quaker city field, he is looking for worlds to conquer, and is figuring with the Armory Club for a chance to show his prowess here. There are a number of good local boys who could look up nicely with him, and a little more outside talent would add class to the already classy shows the Three A Club is giving its members.

THEY CERTAINLY DO GET TO ME with some queer ones. Now I don't know who is the greatest violin player, or how much he drags down each week, and I don't care. Mr. Skeeter is evidently a strong Notre Dame rooter, as he has not been following the basketball season closely. I surely was surprised to learn that Notre Dame had a team, for folks right did not more good than say anything about it. I was supposed to be the real thing, and I would not go to Cuba to see a game. Mr. Skeeter, I would not waste time and money enjoying such a treat. After it looked different, and I would write to President Dwyer-ess and ask his advice, before I made up my mind what I would do.

In reply I received one of the most letters possible. He pointed out the real gors of such a trip, and referred to the to terms that were very gratifying. I assured me that I would never regret following his advice, and I know I never regret it, for he enclosed terms for next season, which were entirely to my liking, and I told him to send me a contract whenever he was ready to sign it. It came as soon as it came, and he has it now.

PLAY NEXT GAME OF SERIES TO-NIGHT

The Hyde Park A. A. and the St. Francis A. A. clash to-night at Magnolia Hall, Hyde Park, in the second game of the series. These two teams played a 15 to 15 game last Tuesday in Charlestown and when they meet to-night it will be a game for blood. Both have defeated the fastest teams in the State and the St. Francis have yet to lose a game this season, last Tuesday being the nearest they have been to it. Hyde Park has been playing good ball lately and should win to-night, having the advantage of playing on their home floor.

WOMAN CHAMPION WINS.

The title of champion female wrestler of the world remains with Miss Laura Bennett, playing this week at the Columbia Theatre. Miss Bennett has held the honor for several years, meeting all comers of her sex.

It was all settled in one bout last night at the Columbia, when Miss Bennett got a toe hold and a half Nelson on Miss Edna Johnson of Cambridge, who had accepted the challenge of Miss Bennett. The decision was given in eight minutes.

SIMPLE LIFE FOR PITCHER BABE ADAMS

Charles "Babe" Adams, the Pirates' sensational young pitcher and the hero of the 1910 world's series between the Buccaneers and the Detroit Tigers, is spending a pleasant Winter at his home in Mt. Morioh, Me.

"Babe" is living the simple life all the time, and is doing nothing that would jeopardize his chances to come back next Summer and repeat the work which last fall made his name famous wherever the great game of baseball is played.

In a letter from the clever young slabster he says:

"There is not much doing about Mt. Moriah in the way of news. This is a quiet locality, and anything out of the ordinary suffers from lack of usage considerably. I have spent the time at home since last Fall and found the quietude much to my liking. Some fellows might consider living at Mt. Moriah a humdrum existence, but it is right to my liking, for I never was the thrill-seeking sort and avoid it, and hence I am surrounded by congenial friends, and manage to have a good time.

"I have had some good sport hunting but not the season to cover and there is not a deer in the woods at present time. I will have a chance for a few more trips before I go to work in the spring, and the ducks will be here again in March. I had some great shooting last Fall shortly after I returned from Pittsburg. The game was very plentiful and I was a pretty stiff shot, and I understand that I seldom returned without something to show for my work.

"I am feeling in fine shape now. I have been doing my road work and the baseball season closed. I surely was glad when it was all over, for I think the folks right did me more good than say anything else. I was supposed to be the real thing, and I would not go to Cuba to see a game. Mr. Skeeter, I would not waste time and money enjoying such a treat. After I looked different, and I would write to President Dreyfuss and ask his advice, before I made up my mind what I would do.

"In reply I received one of the most letters possible. He pointed out the real gors of such a trip, and referred to the to terms that were very gratifying. I assured me that I would never regret following his advice, and I know I never regret it, for he enclosed terms for next season, which were entirely to my liking, and I told him to send me a contract whenever he was ready to sign it. It came as soon as it came, and he has it now."

DAN PAINE WILL BE NEXT PRESIDENT OF FELLSWAYS

That J. J. Brooks will step down and out of the presidency of the Fellsway Driving Club at the conclusion of his yearly term next March came as a shock to the members at their second annual banquet at the Quincy House, as the general idea prevailed he was in line to succeed himself.

Nothing was known to the opposite till Toastmaster E. H. Kingman called upon President Brooks for a few remarks and the latter made the declaration that under no circumstances would he fill the chair another term.

It has been due much to Brooks that the Fellsway Club occupies its present prominent position among the driving clubs of the country. It was organized only two years ago and in that time has jumped to the front as amateur mother racing.

Should Brooks be the number selected for the coming president. He is an earnest worker in such lines, and in every way should carry along the club to even bigger successes than in its history.

Whether the club gets Commonwealth Park for the coming season is still in the air. There is a difference in the price asked by several parties, owners of the property, and what the club feels it is able to pay. However, this may be adjusted before the next meeting to the satisfaction of both parties concerned.

It was a jolly good party of horsemen at the banquet. Among those who gave after-dinner speeches were Fred C. Gilman, president of the Metropolitan Driving Club; A. M. Johnson, president of the Dedham Driving Club; A. H. Jewett of the Quinnapoxett Driving Club, George H. Greenwood of the Dorchesters, Harry Litchfield of Hyde Park and M. Burke. The Wilson, J. P. N. Smith, A. H. Davis, J. Wilder and Secretary P. F. Morrison of the Fellsways. Frank Brindth of the Dedhams also gave an address on fun racing.

Daniel Paine brought out repeated applause in saying that in meeting defeat in inter-club and inter-city meets rival clubs were compelled to go outside and borrow horses to down the Fellsways. He suggested that no horse be permitted to start in inter-club meets which has not been a starter in at least a matinee of the club it represented.

Secretary Morrison related about a new speedway in to the new Medford boulevard, and offered a petition for the borrowers to sign that will be presented to the Metropolitan Park Commission. He too said work was needed from horsemen in getting the commissioners to set aside a portion of the boulevards for the use of horse-drawn vehicles.

Most of the heads of the different clubs spoke of inter-city racing and thought the meets should be held during the months of July and August, that the several clubs in the meets should select a secretary and treasurer, and pool their interests in the receipts, the same to be divided pro rata at the close of the season.

BAT NELSON IS HIT ON JAW

MEMPHIS, Jan. 21.—That anybody with a punch is liable to land once in a while was admitted by Battling Nelson, champion lightweight, after receiving a stinging blow on the jaw that forced him to rumble to the mat for the count.

George Rawlings, a member of Sewanee's famous football squad of the Southern college, thumpeter and all-round athlete, was the party chosen as the lucky one to deliver the blow.

Joy of Living In the Present Wonderful Age

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

THE other day, while waiting for a friend, I picked up a basket of photographs which lay on her drawing-room table.

"What a dear little boy," I remarked, as she came into the room. "Who is he?"

"He's dead, poor little chap," was the answer. "Died when he was six years old; he was such a loony boy."

"Who is this?" I asked presently, picking out a picture of a lovely girl of about eighteen.

"Marion I.," was the answer. "You remember hearing of her; she was killed in a runaway about two years ago."

I picked out still another a boy of fourteen, apparently, only to find out that he had died about a year previously.

"It is too dreadful," I cried, "they were all so pitifully young."

And then I went out into the December sunshine and drew a long breath of pure delight in living.

"Oh, you fortunate, fortunate woman," I thought, "you are alive in God's beautiful world; how very thankful you should be."

We Have One Life on Earth

I know that to people who are ill and sad the world does not seem such a beautiful thing, but, after all, dear friends, we have but this one life on earth.

Every day we see such wonderful things. Think of all the wonders of electricity, which we have been permitted to see. The telephone, telegraph, electric railroads, electric lights; aren't they all very wonderful?

We know all the possibilities of the flying machines. We live in an age that is teeming with marvels. To-day you cannot walk a block without viewing wonders that our ancestors would not have believed could exist. And some day we must close our eyes to all these wonders.

Let us live, for the time allotted to us, with profound gratitude for the blessing vouchsafed us.

If through wise living you can gain health, do so, for the joy of life is doubled and trebled by health.

Some time when you feel most downcast, just say to yourself, "I feel very sorry for myself, but how would I feel if suddenly some one should say to me, 'Come away out of this sunshine and close your eyes forever to all these marvels?'" Would not life suddenly seem inexpressibly dear?

Too Short to Waste in Complaint

I do not know, perhaps I have a pagan love of life and color and sunshine.

Sometimes I feel as though the world were not big enough to hold all its joy and glory for me. I am so grateful not to be blind. How dreadful it would be not to see all the blue and brown and gold of sky and earth and sea.

Life is too short to waste one moment in complaints.

TO-DAY'S BEST STORY

THE greatest trotter in the world, for his time, was being sold at auction. He was finally knocked down to a local millionaire for $26,000. The purchaser strolled out of the ring and over to a lunch counter, where he ordered a chicken sandwich.

The attendant sliced off a postage stamp wafer and inserted it between two slices of bread. The horseman peered over a dollar and the attendant momentarily handed back a half. The horseman looked at the change with a puzzled gaze for a few moments and then pushed it back with the request:

"I will bet you!"

"Bet me what?" asked the attendant.

"The half dollar."

"On what?"

"I'll bet you that the chicken brings more than the horse I just bought."

How Wives Like to Be Treated

By Dorothy Dix

IT is a bromide to say that most of the domestic unhappiness in the world comes from the fact that men do not know how to treat their wives.

This does not mean that husbands are selfish, inconsiderate brutes, who go about breaking women's hearts for sport. Nor does it mean that the average man is a Blue Beard who marries a woman in order to torture her.

On the contrary, practically every man who marries is deeply in love with the girl he asks to be his wife, and it is his most ardent desire to make her happy. That he so often fails is due to his ignorance, and not to intention. Often and often he is a thousand time more patient and more indulgent to his wife than she deserves.

The Three Fallacies of Love

Nevertheless, marriage is frequently a failure because men do not know how to treat their wives. Even when husbands are good they are often good in the wrong way, which is as aggravating to a woman as if she were being stuffed on chocolate creams when her mouth is watering for roast beef and potatoes!

The initial trouble is that every man who is in love starts out with fallacies concerning the woman he adores.

The first is that she is a sort of divine mosexuality, an unfledged angel, a superior being from a higher sphere, whose whiteness should not be sullied by contact with the common things of earth.

The second is that a man should keep the woman he loves in pink cotton and shield her from all the cares and responsibilities of life.

The third is that the woman is a fool, incapable of understanding things or acting rationally.

Of course no human being, not even a woman, can combine in her system all of these inconsistencies; but that doesn't hinder the man from trying to put his theories into execution, and the result is disaster.

Now, no woman wants to be treated as if she were an angel, or a piece of rastle

Every wife wants to know the truth concerning her husband, and get angry when poor excuses are peddled out.

lowrier that wasn't genuine enough to wear, or even as if she were an idiot.

What women yearn for, what they break their hearts for, what would make them perfectly happy, is for their husbands to treat them as if they were human beings, with almost human intelligence.

But they seldom get this. They are treated well, and they are treated badly, but few are ever treated fairly.

A woman's ideal of earthly bliss is for her husband to make her his chum. She wants with an unspeakable yearning for him to want her as his companion, to love to talk to her, and to enjoy taking her out.

In that wonderfully clever play, "Is Matrimony a Failure," there is one line that brings a lump into the throat of every married woman, and that is, where the wife turns to the husband who has been making gaudy trips out of town by himself in New York and says to him, "Hereafter you have got to take me with you, and you don't know what a good fellow I can be!"

That's the thought in the hearts of millions of other married women. Their husbands don't know what good fellows they could be, how companionable, how jolly. And they never get a chance to show them.

Women don't want their husbands to be afraid of them, or to look upon them as all-wise, or to flee to them. A young man who was radiantly happy in his marriage once told me this illuminating little story:

"When I got married," he said, "I had the idea that a man's first duty was to be to his wife and keep her in the dark when he escaped a little off the straight and narrow path. Well, I hadn't been married very long before I got in a game of poker and lost a good deal more money than my income justified.

"Of course I had to borrow to make good, and then to pay back I was holding out a little of my salary here, and a little there, and tying to her right and left, and living a life of double-dyed deceit that got on my nerves and made me perfectly miserable.

"Of course I thought, if I should tell her what was the matter, that there would be a terrible scene, with tears and reproaches, and the deuce to pay generally.

Finally the Story Came Out

"Finally, however, in a moment of despair, I blurted it out—and what do you suppose she did? She didn't turn a hair, or say a word about the kind of an idiot I'd been. She took it like a dead game sport, and dug down into what she'd been saving out of her housekeeping money and made me go and square myself.

"You would have thought that she had been paying debts of honor all her life.

"That taught me a lesson, and we've been perfectly happy, because I don't keep a thing from her, but just treat her as if she is a pal that knows all about how it is when a fellow jolts off of the water cart now and then.

There's a great deal of cumulbial happiness in that story, gentlemen.

There are very few women so narrow and mean that they cannot realize that a man who works on a strain all the time needs relaxation now and then, and longs occasionally for an evening of purely masculine society.

But what makes the wife mad all over is for her husband not to frankly tell her what he intends doing. It insults her intelligence for him to try to deceive her with a story that wouldn't take in a girl baby, about a customer coming from Oshkosh, or having to sit up with a sick friend, or attend a lodge meeting.

Tell Your Wife the Truth

The man who tells his wife the truth, no matter what that truth is, and who convinces his wife that he is on the level with her, has nothing to fear from her jealousy or suspicions. It's the woman who knows she is being lied to who gets up in the night and goes through her husband's pockets, to see if there is any feminine handwriting about, and who sniffs at his coat to see if it smells of tobacco or violet extract.

And that's one way a wife likes to be treated.

A MODERN MYSTERY By CHARLES E. WALK

CHAPTER XXIV. — (Continued)

"CHASE you!" the voice hissed. "I'll be my own chauffeur. . . .

Take that, you little devil!"

Now Edith was terrified in all conscience. Not until the fingers touched her throat did she realize the utter helplessness of the attack or the inconceivable audacity of her assailant.

"Will you do as I say?" demanded the voice, low pressure now, but threatening somewhat. "Drive straight ahead at top speed; turn as I tell you to, stop at my command and you shall come to no harm. At the first sign of trickery—if you try to let any another yell, I'll finish the job. Speak up!"

She had not collapsed. Next she was so roughly thrust aside that she nearly fell to the street, but she dimly knew that the man was clambering across to the driver's seat. One leg was over the back rest when, without the slightest warning, an interruption came in the unexpected quarter.

Now, as it happened, Dorothy had not fainted. The instant the man's face appeared at the side of the automobile she bent one wild look upon him, and at once turned deathly pale, cringing away from him as far as the confines of the tonneau would permit, where she sat speechless with terror.

And this she remained, staring at the intruder with fixed, unseeing eyes, until he started to swing over to the front. The movement seemed to break the spell that held her enchained. With startling abruptness her frenzied, piercing screams burst forth and rang shuddering through the still night air.

All along the street doors opened, and windows were thrown up, with a clash. And now, somewhere off in the darkness could be heard the flutter of an approaching automobile, coming at a pace that must bring it soon upon the scene.

There was an oath and a muttered imprecation from the man in the automobile. He tried to jump from his insecure position astride the back rest to the walk; a reckless feat to attempt, for he landed on hands and knees with a force that wrung from him a cry of pain. One arm dangled under him with a sickening crunching sound. After one vain effort to rise, he groaned and sank back to the walk.

CHAPTER XXV.

A NIGHTFALL, worn out in both mind and body, tattered and disfigured, Cole and Flint returned from an ineffectual search for the missing bride. Cole had pressed into service Gibbs's tour ing car, and they sped homeward.

On the way home Flint dimly told of Kelsey's tragic death and Miss Gervaise's startling flight. His hearer was lethargic until Edith's name was mentioned; then the effect of this disclosure surprised the detective not a little.

Cole jumped, as if "stung," back to life. Leaning forward, he gave the chauffeur the curtest of orders, "Go like the devil!" he tersely commanded.

The young fellow obeyed.

"What do you mean?" demanded Flint.

"It's an easy one," was the dry response. "Miss Gervaise has heard news of Miss Day."

Flint marvelled in silence; the possibility had not occurred to him.

It was while the speeding motor was entering the block in which her residence was situated that the two men were startled and thrilled by Dorothy's prolonged scream. The chauffeur needed no other telling. He shot forward, the sparkle and the big machine fairly leaped over the intervening distance.

Cole was out on the walk before the motor stopped just behind the other car, stooped over the prostrate figure, only to recoil immediately with a smothered ejaculation of sheer amazement.

"Canarini!"

At once, however, Flint shouldered him aside. His more comprehensive glance had detected the fact that the man was disarmed, and he wanted to forestall any possible rash act on the part of Cole which the young man would surely repent of afterward.

"He's wounded," Flint curtly announced; "I'll take care of him; look after the ladies."

Half an hour later, when Gibbs's automobile returned to Miss Day's, bearing its overjoyed owner, he was greeted in the rear drawing room, not only by the mistress of the house herself, but there were present, besides Cole, Pilsbess Flint, Miss Gervaise, Sarah Kemp and a remarkable looking black-visted man whom Mr. Gibbs had never seen before.

If Dorothy had been apprehensive over the probable manner of her lover's greeting, her doubts were soon set at rest. Utterly disregardful of his audience, Gibbs hastened to her.

"Dorothy!" he cried, a low, vibrating each of the days and nights of wretched suspense; an assurance that his devotion remained unchanged, unquestioning. As their hands met in a trembling clasp, her eyes grew hazy.

"My dear!" she whispered. "My dear!"

The story was soon told. If hatred back to Dorothy's school days, when she and Alessandro Canarini—the son of a wealthy Italian merchant, residing in Nagasaki, who had married a native lady—had been classmates in an obscure college in California.

The traditions of the little college in question really would not foster fraternal ties, and, unsuspected by a trusting faculty, Canarini organized a secret society known among the students as "The Yellow Circle."

It was the ambition of Dorothy to gain initiation into this then innocent association that led to her undoing. Canarini, discovering the secret of the society, forced Edith to the seer. The girl had always felt the influence of Canarini's magnetic personality, yet even her unsophisticated mind had noted, without identifying, the sinister power that lay behind the mask's attraction. When he proposed marriage her dislike grew to loathing and fear.

Her father, however, had come under Canarini's influence; he favored the marriage and had been angered at her refusal to comply with his wishes.

Cost of Beauty

How New York Dames Keep Young.

Recently a young New York Society woman received her monthly bill from a downtown beauty parlor. This particular bill amounted to Fifty-two dollars for the month, which was, perhaps, a little lower than the average monthly accounts rendered by this Shop. It contained such items as Turkish Bath—$2.00; Violet Water Rub, $.75; Facial Massage, $.75. The attendants at these exclusive "beauty parlors" frequently make as much as ten dollars a day in tips. Occasionally some "grande-dame" who considers she affords perfumed ten-dollar piece from her good bag and tosses it to Nancy with an air of lofty grace. One of these attendants confided to a friend in an ungnarded moment that among the many lotions and beauty restorers used in such establishments, a preparation for restoring gray hair was most in demand. It is usually charged on the bill at five dollars a bottle, under a fancy name, but in reality is the same formula as HAY'S HAIR HEALTH, which retails at all druggists for 50 cents and a dollar per bottle, and is manufactured by PHILO HAY SPECIALTIES CO., Newark, N. J., U.S.A. HAY'S HAIR HEALTH has many imitators, but those who have used different preparations agree that HAY'S HAIR HEALTH is the most effective and safest.

The Show Girl and Her Lisp Tangle Percy

By HANK

"SO you've arrived at last, have you?" Percy asked sarcastically as the Show Girl swept into the restaurant late as usual.

"Yeth, thir," she replied.

"Yeth, thir!" Percy repeated, in an undertone. "What the dickens are you trying to do, develop a lisp?"

"Yeth, thir," said the Show Girl again demurely.

"Aw, cut it out," growled Percy, who refused to be amused. "What are you trying to do, kid me?"

"No, thir," said the Show Girl.

"All right," angrily exclaimed Percy, "if you're going to continue the baby talk you can speak to yourself," and he dug into his butter cakes.

"All right, thir," persisted the Show Girl without a smile on her face.

After a few minutes silence Percy was constrained to ask:

"Well, have you made up your mind to be sensible and talk like a natural person, and not like an oyster?"

"I never taketh like an oyster," replied the Show girl, "I have developth—developth—er—"

A Terrible Calamity

"Developed, you want to say," Percy broke in looking somewhat worried, "go on with the rest of it."

"I have developth a growth under my tongueth," lisped the Show Girl with evident difficulty, "and the doctor thays I mustn't taketh non-outh."

"Phee!" exclaimed Percy, looking serious, "that's fierce. How the dickens did you get it?"

"By chewingth too much gum," explained the Show Girl with an effort.

"I always told you not to chew so much of the stuff" said Percy, "geewhiz it's a wonder you didn't dislocate you jaw."

"Yeth thir," said the Show Girl.

"For the love of Mike cut out the 'yeth thir,'" appealed Percy, "it gets on my nerves. Don't say anything if you have to say that."

"All right thir," replied the Show Girl annoyingly, and Percy groaned.

"Say," he suddenly exclaimed, brightening up, "I've always wanted you to meet a certain old college of mine and he'll be in here to-morrow night. Will you be here at the usual time?"

"Yeth th——"

"Never mind saying it," shouted Percy hurriedly as he started to stop up his ears with his fingers.

"He has a funny name," he continued, "but he's the goods, and I want you to be nice to him. His name is Sigsbee Sisson Sewell."

"I thwill be very glad to meet Mr. Thigbee Thisson Thewell," said the Show Girl.

Percy Pays Up

"Phee!" ejaculated Percy, "do you think you'll have to pronounce his name like that to-morrow night?"

"Yeth——"

"Enough," cried Percy, "we'll call it off. I'll see him somewhere else. If he was ever addressed like that he would knock my head off, thinking I had introduced him to you so you could kid him."

"Oh, I guess I'll be all right," replied the Show Girl in natural tones and grinning at her companion, "and I should be very happy to meet Mr. SIGSBEE SISSON SEWELL."

"Well, I'm ——" began Percy, but the Show Girl's gloved hand over his mouth prevented him from ending the exclamation.

"One, or two checks, tonight?" Mr. Percy asked Joe, the waiter, who suddenly appeared at the table.

"One check" said Percy, decidedly, "I'll pay for the whole layout. It's certainly on me this time."

SCINTILLATE

"These gamblers who prey upon the unwary in a great city are like the stars."

"In what respect, I would like to know."

"Don't they shine all late?"

If you placed several skeins of yarns of different makes side by side you would probably be able to pick out Fleisher's.

But if these same skeins were made up into garments, the superiority of the FLEISHER YARNS would be so evident that there could not be any doubt about it. All the softness and elasticity of the original thread would be imparted to the garment, because the FLEISHER YARNS do not crush on the needles. And the longer you would wear these garments the greater the difference would grow. Try the FLEISHER YARNS for your next garment.

THE LATEST STYLES IN KNITTING AND CROCHETING

A Pretty and Easily Made Scarf

My lady of the court of Louis XVI must have a scarf—many scarfs—to throw about her dainty shoulders. And now that we are reviving the styles of the gay Louis periods, the scarf has become an indispensable article of the wardrobe, fitted for a bit out of the ordinary. It has an all-over pattern of alternate raised and sunken blocks that adds a touch of distinction

This scarf is made of fourteen skeins of Fleisher's Shetland Floss—one of the softest and daintiest yarns imaginable. It is so made that the scarf will not become stretched or strings, and will hang in the long graceful folds that are the real charm of any scarf.

Full directions for making this and many other new and staple articles may be found in Fleisher's Knitting and Crocheting Manual, an invaluable handbook for beginner and expert. Contains a complete course of instruction in the various stitches and is the only authoritative guide to fashion in articles made of yarn.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR CURED

A Lady Will Send Free to Any Sufferer the Secret Which Cured Her.

Since a child I was distressed and humiliated by an unwelcome growth of hair on my face and arms. I tried all the depilatories, powders, liquids and electrolysis preparations I ever heard of, only to make it worse. For weeks I suffered the electric needle without being rid of my blemish. I spent a great deal of money on various things in vain, until a friend recommended a simple preparation which succeeded where all else failed.

This simple remedy enabled me permanently to find entire relief from all trace of unwelcome hair, and forever end my embarrassment. It is simple, safe, sure, and can be used privately at home, without fear of pain or blemish. It makes the electric needle entirely unnecessary.

I will tell in detail full particulars to enable any other sufferer to achieve the same happy results as I did privately at home. All I ask is a two cent stamp for reply. Address CAROLINE OSGOOD, 111 F. Old P. O. St., Providence, R. I.

"Off the Griddle!!" $25 for Best Recipes for Buckwheat Cakes

John Wiggins is in trouble.

A delegation of disturbed housewives descended upon the American office early today and demanded that the said John Wiggins stop his buckwheat contest, at once.

"Your husbands want buckwheat cakes every morning for breakfast, now," said their spokesman, "and we protest that we have trouble enough without getting up early to make them."

A grocery dealer writes in: "Won't you change your contest from buckwheat cakes to pancakes in general? I have stock about fifty times a day for REAL BUCKWHEAT flour, and I can't find any in the market, and the customers can't be induced to take PANCAKE flour."

Well, John Wiggins is going to stick it out and insist upon REAL BUCKWHEAT CAKES. None of your imitations for him. Haven't we got the right to get what he wants? Well, I should say.

Therefore Buckwheat cakes it is.

The American will give $25 in cash prizes to the persons sending in the best recipes for buckwheat cakes.

The prizes are:

First prize, $10.

Second prize, $5.

And ten prizes of $1 each.

Here are some of the best recipes received:

From a Careful Cook.

JOHN WIGGINS, Boston American:

Sir—I send you several recipes and complete directions for making buckwheat cakes:

OLD FASHIONED KIND.

Dissolve one compressed yeast cake in one pint of lukewarm milk or water. Add one tablespoonful of white flour, one tablespoonful of molasses and one teaspoonful of salt; then the milk or water containing the yeast and rub until smooth. Add enough of the finest of buckwheat flour to make a moderately thick batter, which should be perfectly smooth. Set the batter in a warm place to rise overnight. In the morning thin if necessary and fry on hot, greased griddle.

QUICK PROCESS.

Dissolve one yeast cake in one and one-half pints of lukewarm milk or water. Add one teaspoonful of salt, a handful of wheat flour, a tablespoonful of molasses and buckwheat flour enough to make ordinary batter. Set in a warm place to rise and in about thirty minutes you will be ready to fry in about thirty minutes.

ANOTHER KIND.

One quart buckwheat flour, one wheat flour, four cakes in half cup of warm water, salt to taste. Mix the buckwheat flour with warm milk and milk moderately warm water as will make it into a thin batter. Beat it well, then add the dissolved yeast. Do not stir it much. Put in a warm place to rise. Fry on hot greased griddle; serve hot.

Here are a few good rules:

A hot griddle pan is essential to have good cakes. If it is not hot the cakes will be tough. The griddle should be well greased, otherwise the cakes will stick to it. An old griddle pan is the best. After frying, put a piece of butter on a plate; butter each cake as you take it off and dip in hot water.

Sis Mirandy's Way.

JOHN WIGGINS, Boston American:

Sir—Here is Mirandy's way to make buckwheat cakes:

A quart of buckwheat meal, sifted; a level teaspoonful of salt; a small teacup-ful or a large handful of indian meal; one-half dissolved yeast cake; sufficient lukewarm water to make a moderate batter. Mix together the buckwheat and indian meal, and add the salt. Make a hole in the centre of the meal and pour in the yeast. Then stir in gradually, from a bottle, sufficient tepid or lukewarm water to make a moderately thick batter when mixed for the yeast. Cover the pan, set it in a warm place and leave it to rise. It should be light in about three hours. When it has risen high and is covered with bubbles, stir it to bake. Have ready a clean griddle, well-heated over the fire. Grease it well with a piece of fresh butter tied in a clean, with a bit and kept on a scarce heat you. Then dip out a large ladleful of the batter and bake it on the griddle, turning it when brown with the pike-turner and bake it brown on the other side. Grease the griddle slightly between baking each cake.

As fast as you bake the cakes, lay them, several in a pile, on a hot plate. Butter them and, if of large size, cut them across into four pieces, or send them to the table to be buttered there.

MISS FLEURY.

Miss Mansfield Does It Thus.

John Wiggins, Boston American:

Sir—The following is my receipt for making buckwheat cakes, which I have found very satisfactory. One half-pint of buckwheat flour, three tablespoonfuls of wheat flour, one even tablespoonful sugar, a pinch of salt, two-thirds of a yeast cake dissolved in a cup of tepid water first, then adding lukewarm water sufficient for a batter. Have the bowl and flour warm before mixing; in the morning add a pinch of cooking soda. It should be set where it will keep warm all night, not a radiator or range. Omit the wheat flour if you choose. I also add more water (warm) in the morning if too thick if too thin, more flour. Use drippings or lard with butter to fry.

MISS M. A. MANSFIELD.

No. 71 Howard street, Rockland.

Size 'Em Up.

JOHN WIGGINS, Boston American:

Sir—Sift together one quart of buckwheat flour and a teacup of corn meal. Make up moderately thin batter with lukewarm sweet milk, salt to taste.

Make it up in a jar, covering closely, at 9 o'clock at night. The next morning beat in three eggs, let it set fifteen or twenty minutes, just before frying, stir in a teaspoonful of soda, first sprinkling it over the batter, and you will have a cake puffing the same quantity in each cake and not enough to make them heavy. Bake on a large, thick griddle, which should be very hot before the batter is dropped on. Add the beaten eggs and the milk, after thoroughly mixed, and pour mixture into the pan, etc. The cakes should be served hot, and with maple syrup if it is preferred.

Hoping you will find the cakes made from this recipe as delicious as those you had "on the farm."

ACCUSED OF BEING "UNIQUE BURGLAR"

City Point Station police accuse David J. Noonan of being an unique burglar. They say that he and some confederates broke into the stable of H. J. Baird at No. 491 East Third street, South Boston, on the night of Jan. 8 and took out of a stall a horse which they hitched to a wagon standing in the yard and, loading undelivered merchandise valued at $500. The police say the wagon was driven off and the goods were dumped into pieces of woo enclosure around South Boston. Much of the plunder was found in vacant lots. Noonan pleaded not guilty to a breaking and entering charge when arraigned before Judge Fallon in the South Boston District Court today, and was held in $1,000 for a higher tribunal.

WESTINGHOUSE IS GUEST IN BOSTON

George Westinghouse, president of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, of Pittsburg, reached Boston today where he is to be honored by the Boston members of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and Boston Society of Civil Engineers at a banquet tonight at the Hotel Somerset. Mr. Westinghouse is president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. He has been voted a six months' leave of absence by the directors of the company, and will spend some time abroad.

MASON HEARING FEB. 3.

Judge Putnam of the United States Circuit Court today set February 3, at 10 a. m., as the time for a hearing on the demurrers filed in behalf of Frank H. Mason, ex-U. S. attorney for the United States District Court, who is accused of embezzlement and perjury by the government.

The Relative Stability and Safety of CURB STOCKS

Once more the stability and safety of seasoned curb stocks has been proven by recent happenings.

Among the high rated securities a decided break in one week's time and the whole world was not turned with it a train of disaster. Those margined accounts have been wiped out and the avalanche of selling has brought prices to a lower average level than has been witnessed for a year.

Now has the curb acted during this ordeal? It has held up remarkably well. Curb stocks could not be bought outright. If bought on margin considerable interest required at least 20 per cent and a break in the price of one stock may go by, and indeed usually does go by, before it is matched by the fall of the market, as there is little forced liquidation.

With the money which is barely sufficient for carrying high rated securities in a narrow margin, curb stocks may be bought outright. Many of the leading curb stocks can now be bought at around $10 per share, and some of the best known issues on the curb can be selling at from $20 to $30 per share. Compared with other securities and at their low selling at these prices the curb stocks are going to be given the preference by many discriminating investors.

Those who buy curb stocks conservatively and after proper investigation, who avoid promotion stocks that do not have any merit, as well as flagrantly advertised stocks of irresponsible companies, are likely in the long run to make substantial profits on their investments.

My suggestions should be of value to you as this firm

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

The perforating bears of Rock Island 4s6 flocking having gone through their turns, some of the governing wins rallied materials in the Colorado Fuel and Iron pool would do a few points to get to make it a interesting circus and woo up the whole mess at once.

$ $ $

It is the invariable history of such stock market declines that they are never succeeded by an immediately permanent recovery. Such recoveries as do occur are temporary retrace ments, superbolused by fortuitous favorable factors, but generally added accidentally by the buying of bargain hunters.

$ $ $

But when these needs are filled the market is ripe for a further upward movement, proper that follows great excitement. It is almost impossible physically and psychologically for a market to recover after drastic liquidation. Too much confidence has been destroyed, or inclined. Confidence has been shaken, and there is a long process of pecie and several bankruptcies are the concomitants.

$ $ $

Although the leading interests in the Street have succeeded in selling millions of securities in the last two months by their confidence in the future and favorable sentiments, they have hurt the market considerably, and it will take some hard some surprises to restore a public interest in stocks that can be figured on as investments basis.

$ $ $

It is understood that the Steel Trust directors having invited the public into the common stock at 90, with assurances of a 5 per cent. rate to begin next Tuesday, are repentant and may declare 1¼ per cent. at the common stock at that meeting. Of this, 3¼ per cent will be an extra dividend in order to bring up the payments out of the earnings of 1909 to a full 4 per cent. 4¼ per cent. having been paid during 1909. This extra payment will do the stock no good in the market unless accompanied with an official promise to increase the dividend after the next quarterly meeting. The trust should earn at least $180,000,000 net in 1910.

$ $ $

It can be stated on high authority that no action against the Steel Trust is contemplated by the Government under the Sherman anti-trust law. The trust has never attempted to gain a monopoly by unfair competition, and the law protects competitors rather than the trust.

$ $ $

It is in Union Pacific that the Street expects to find a reason for a material rally. Notwithstanding the contrary reports from Washington, there are valid reasons for believing that the sale brought about Union Pacific by the Roosevelt administration will be abandoned. If it is not, President Taft will be compelled to withdraw from the case. Several meetings between persons in close touch with Washington assert that the President and Attorney-General Wickersham favor abandonment of the litigation on the ground that Union Pacific and Southern Pacific are not parallel and competing. Attorneys Kellogg and Severance want the case continued. Several members of the Cabinet are of opinion that the litigation ought to be continued because it is not in harmony with the President's policy as laid down in his special message and detailed in the railroad reform bill presented to Congress.

$ $ $

New York Central has been made rather conspicuous by the declaration of an initial dividend of 2½ per cent. on the new Canada common. This payment, together with that of the Big Four, will bring the finances of the Central; if they do not make for a 6 per cent. dividend some time this year, they at least will render the current rate doubly sure.

$ $ $

Hawley stocks were attacked, but Hawley bankers were discovered calmly purchasing on a scale down. Comparable Ohio and Missouri, Kansas & Texas in New York, and at the same buying calls on the latter in London. In order to break Hawley the bears will have to break J. P. Morgan & Co., the National City Bank, the First National Bank of New York, and a few others whose collapse will not be important if those three go.

$ $ $

One favorable influence is the answer given by the New York Central to the demands of its men for an increase of wages. This answer was an invitation to compromise the matter, and the same answer will be given by other two other railroads that have been called upon by their employes.

$ $ $

An increase of wages is coming, as a matter of fact, not because the Street is wicked, but because there has been $1,200,000,000 of new gold added to it from the mines of the world in the last three years, not counting the vast increase of paper currency that has been hanging over the financial market of America like a huge balloon. Prices are high and will where either for food or for stocks. It is better that is being the case, because less money is becoming of less value, prices of stocks cannot go as high as the bears want them to go.

The Corbin Copper Company has sold 15,000 shares of treasury stock to net the company $10 per share or $150,000. This will make the outstanding stock $130,000 shares, and will still leave 20,000 shares in the treasury.

ACCUSED BY GIRL TWO PLEAD GUILTY

Dr. William M. Colby, of No. 59 Cedar street, West Somerville, arraigned before Judge Wentworth, to-day, charged with an illegal operation upon Mary Kiley, who is in the Boston City Hospital. William J. Haldane, janitor of an apartment house at No. 827 Boylston street, was charged with being an accessory to the crime. Both pleaded guilty and examination was waived.

HAMILTON MAN'S LIABILITIES $87,673

Francis Isaac of Hamilton filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy to-day, stating that his liabilities are $87,673 and his assets $60,000. His assets include real estate valued at $50,010. His largest secured creditors are George C. Vaughn of Salem, $10,000; Ipswich Savings Bank, $10,000, and Mary Metcalf of Lynn, $5,000.

DULLNESS IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Reductions of the bank of Germany discount rate to 4½ per cent. added to easier money in London, gave a buoyant market in the foreign exchange to-day. This was not followed by New York, however, as much as Wall Street traders had expected. The opening was firm with a few improvements over yesterday's close. There seemed to be little for sale, and the market was dull.

Hill stocks were the strongest issues, with Reading very firm. On heavy purchases supposed to come from Washington, steel shares made good gains.

Unofficial report was that the steel directors will declare three-quarters of one per cent. extra on the common stock per Tuesday to make up a full per cent. for the fiscal year of 1909. Earnings for 1910 are expected to be at least $180,000,000, and a five per cent. dividend is practically promised by the board.

On the curb market mining stocks were quiet, with Miami showing the greatest strength.

LYNN JUDGE HITS LIQUOR TRADE BLOW

LYNN, Jan. 21.—Judge Lummus in the Police Court to-day dealt another blow to the forces who are attempting to carry on the liquor trade between Boston and Lynn, by dealing guilty two express drivers convicted by a North street concern in Boston. The two men are John Moscello and Rocco Novello. Moscello was fined $150, and Novello $150. Judge Lummus declared that a liquor sale made in Boston must be completed until the goods were delivered in Lynn, and that delivery in terms marked "for delivery" was plainly a subterfuge in effort to avoid the law. Both men appealed and the case will be heard in the Superior Court.

N. Y. TROUBLE HITS COPPERS

STATE STREET, Jan. 21.—Copper stocks were reactionary after the opening dealings. Lake Copper and Mohawk mining were conspicuous for early strength, but they also weakened. There was a good volume of business on the exchange due to the unsettled feeling regarding the New York market. Amalgamated broke from 83 to 81¾ on arbitrage selling, but quickly recovered to 82¼.

Mohawk rose 1½ points to 75, subsequently reacting to 73. This company has recently made a rich strike, and buying from Michigan this morning caused the advance to 75.

Lake touched 90 near the opening, later falling to 88¾. Bulls on the stock are as enthusiastic as ever on this property, and are predicting fabulous prices for the stock.

Trading in North Lake has quieted down, although the price holds steady. Calumet & Arizona recovered to 85¼. It is now claimed definitely that the Cole Ryan interests have parted with their interest in this stock.

North Butte is recovering lost ground marketwise as well as miningwise. It rose to 47 this forenoon, although reacting to 45¾ followed. Massachusetts Electric was a strong feature this forenoon, doing at most a point to 10.

Indiana, Greene and Corbin Copper were the curb features. Early prices were shaded around the noon hour.

DR. COOK WAS FAKER IN 1904, SAYS TYTUS

Robb de Peyster Tytus of Tyringham, the richest member of the Massachusetts Legislature, has come forward to say that Tytus since the Dr. Cook controversy, with the news that he, too, knew long ago that Dr. Cook is a faker. Mr. Tytus was a member of Dr. Cook's expedition to Greenland in 1904, taking along fifty-four passengers at $1,000 each. Mr. Tytus finally left the expedition in disgust and came back to New Haven, Ct., where he was then a student at Yale. Those members of the expedition who stayed until the end nearly starved to death, and existed for many day on sea gull stew.

"Dr. Cook was the same proposition in the Summer of 1904 that he is to-day," said Mr. Tytus, as one of the most striking of the features of the trip, "and, if, as about enough to say. The Miranda expedition was a bunco proposition from start to finish. Dr. Cook knew perfectly well the foolishness of taking an iron vessel into the Arctic, but he didn't care. The sealer was good for only about twenty-five passengers, and that's the number we were led to believe were going when I joined the party. When he saw that he could get more than that number he didn't hesitate to take the other boat.

"When we reached Sydney a committee of the passengers complained that Dr. Cook had taken on some outlawed and several sleepy to augment his ship's food supply. The food was most unsatisfactory. At St. Johns, Newfoundland, where he made a stop, the old salts told us we would never come back, and declared the proposition of going into the Arctic with our equipment."

GERMANY THINKS DR. COOK IS INSANE OVER NORTH POLE

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—Germany is immersed in uncertainty whether it has the doubtful honor of sheltering Dr. Cook at the present moment or not. The report that he is undergoing treatment incognito in a sanitarium near Heidelberg is positively denied by the management of all the known health resorts in the region of the famous university city. But the Frankfurter Presse of Frankfort claims to have positive information that Cook actually arrived at Heidelberg some time ago.

He is said by this paper to be very sick, present events having told severely on him. Observers are quoted as declaring that his delusion of discovery of the North Pole is a segment of a diseased brain. Mrs. Cook is declared, on the same authority, to be in Heidelberg also.

The Berlin press alleges that the directors of the various sanitariums who are denying Cook's presence are simply respecting his incognito.

GIRL GETS IN $80 JUDGMENT AGAINST COOK IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Miss Rose Wolber, a stenographer having her own office in the Metropolitan Tower, obtained judgment in the Municipal Court for $80 due her by Explorer Frederick Cook for eight days' work while he was supposed to be at the Waldorf.

"I never saw any work on the records of the North Pole matter. I simply opened the door of the office and took down the letter that came to me each day from all sorts of people offering congratulations."

Miss Wolber said that Doctor Cook received $200 a day for talking into the Edison Company phonograph, and that when he received a cable from Mr. Wrekell of Detroit and Mr. Peary was reported to be in France saying that there were already $500 million dollars in sight for the Cook stories to the new book Dr. Cook was writing."

WATSON WANTS TO DEBATE WITH BRYAN

ATLANTA, Jan. 21.—Thomas E. Watson, the Populist, is so eager to meet William J. Bryan in debate on the subject of foreign missions that he offers to give the Nebraskan $10,000 if he will accept the challenge. Watson has been demanding for eight months that Bryan and he be matched before the church people. William T. Ellis of Philadelphia and the Rev. Dr. Brougher of Atlanta have challenged Watson to debate, but he has refused to meet them.

Here Is a Pleasant Change

A Sane, Benevolent Immigration Suggestion

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal Examiner

We have talked to our readers about a bill introduced by a Mr. Hayes in Congress. Besides being dangerous, that Hayes bill is very enlightening. It shows in what direction this country and the moneyed men that rule it are drifting. It is just as dangerous to those MONEYED MEN THEMSELVES as it is to the poor, persecuted Jew in Russia, whom they would keep out of America.

When Mr. Elihu Root, the trust jackal, plans to have men who come here labelled and ticketed so that he can send them back to Russia or to Spain if wanted, he thinks that he is serving his foreign friends and his friends at home. But in reality, he is preparing THE MOST SERIOUS POSSIBLE TROUBLE FOR THEM.

The Hayes bill, which would reflect upon the moral character of every respectable young woman coming to America without her father or mother, would put the shameful tax of ten dollars each on mothers and children looking for a chance in this republic, would compel a man fleeing from injustice to get the permission and the recommendation of his persecutor before coming here, and would compel men to register when they do get here, like dogs or machines, is shameful and should be killed.

Members of Congress who retain the notion that this is a republic and editors throughout the country able to influence Congress will probably attend to the Hayes bill. But after this particular bill is killed, many others like it will have to be killed.

In pleasant contrast to the vile suggestions in the Hayes bill comes a resolution introduced into the House of Representatives a few days ago by Mr. Sulzer of New York. The resolution, commendably short, says:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Whereas, the present immigration laws often cause the needless breaking of family ties, resulting in great suffering to those so affected; and

Whereas, a great many have taken their lives in the past years, in preference to being separated, either through the lack of means to accompany their departed kin, or through political reasons, making their return to their native countries impossible; Therefore be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That families hereafter arriving in the United States be admitted and not separated through the inadmissibility of one or more members, providing said member or members be not suffering from a loathsome or contagious disease.

Failure to pass this resolution would be a reflection on Congress, on this country and on our pretense to civilization.

What could be more brutal than the separation of families against which Mr. Sulzer's resolution provides? He is entitled to the thanks of the country for having introduced this measure.

Consumers' Strike for Lower Prices

The chairman of a committee of the Ohio Legislature, appointed to consider ways and means of dealing with the rise in the price of provisions, has issued a manifesto to all the people of the State, asking them to abstain from the use of meat for thirty days from February 1, with a view to bringing down meat prices to reasonable figures.

It is said that more than twenty thousand citizens of Cleveland have already signed pledges to co-operate in this consumers' strike against the Meat Trust.

A similar movement on a national scale has established its headquarters at Washington, and has met the President's approval.

Thus opens a new chapter in the history of commercial and industrial warfare.

The principle of the consumers' strike will undoubtedly develop a considerable value as a war measure. It is roundabout and cumbersome, as most war measures must needs be.

But as a negation of commercial abuses and a veto upon economic tyranny it is calculated to prove to monopolists the irresistible power of the public and to dispose them to listen to reason.

All political and social oppression finds its leverage in the practical difficulty of getting multitudes of people to agree upon a method of resistance. And the swift prevalence of a consumers' strike against extortionate prices will go far to convince monopolists that a new day of social unity has dawned and that the ancient leverage of oppression has failed them.

Then it will be much easier to apply DIRECT CONSTRUCTIVE METHODS TO ABOLISH THE TAXATION OF THE TRUSTS.

Russia's Refusal Not Final

The news that Russia has refused to accept our proposals for the neutralization of the Manchurian railroads is to be taken with many grains of reserve.

In the first place, it is to be noted that the Russian government does not decline absolutely, but only "at present."

And, in the second place, it is to be borne in mind that Russia is already pledged by treaty to the principle involved — to wit, the neutrality of the Manchurian province so far as the great Powers are concerned. And having reserved by the "at present" clause the right to continue the negotiations, the inference is that the Russian Cabinet is merely standing out for better terms than have been offered.

International politics tends more and more to become a matter of business. And the coercions of commerce are as real as those of war. Russia can be compelled to assent, if the other Powers get into line.

Chinese newspapers are unanimous for the American plan. And the public opinion of the world has been aroused to a new sense of the justice and soundness of the policy of the open door.

It should be recalled that Mr. Hay had a much harder time getting the nations to assent to the open door principle than Mr. Knox has had so far in securing their assent to a practical application of it. Secretary Hay sent his note on this subject to the Powers in September, 1899. And after many demurrers and cold shoulderings the Powers agreed to it in March the following year.

The report that Japan has also decided to resist the Knox project is taken no more seriously in diplomatic circles at Washington than is the news of Russia's refusal.

The SUNDAY AMERICAN is Boston's greatest newspaper. Something in it for everybody. More features and news than in any other newspaper. Circulation growing all the time.

Social Evolution

Especially Written for the American

By ELBERT HUBBARD

THE pattern for the first form of government is derived from the idea of the family and is purely paternal.

The father of his family then evolves into Chief of the Clan, and an absolute monarchy follows.

And, as our idea of divinity ever rags close behind the form of government under which we live, a people in an absolute monarchy always set up in the market place of their imaginations an Infinite Nix, which they proceed to worship.

All governments, political and paternal, began with the idea of compelling people to do certain things, and restraining them from doing other things.

The clan was a combination of families that were related by blood ties. So we get the Maguires and the McIntyres, who fight on sight.

Following this division by families we get the Estate, from which word we get our word "State."

The county is a division of the Estate or State.

The word "count," "comite," or "county" first related to a certain number or count of persons — usually five hundred "heads," this number being necessary before a division of the clan was allowed. The chief in charge of the new division was called by the common people "count," and so the word stuck.

The organization of the British Empire began with King Arthur, whose dream was to make England a peaceful country.

The extension of the peace area is what constituted progress, and nothing else does or can.

It was a mighty achievement when King Arthur brought that piece over an area as big as New York State by dividing the country up into districts, and over all of these having a central governor or "count," to whom all grievances must be submitted.

Likewise it is a mighty and almost stupendous achievement when the whole of North America is a place of peace and prosperity, all through the matter of wise organization.

Including Canada, this country has over a hundred million people. These people came here from every corner of the globe. And some of these folks were not very nice. Yet here they are organized on a peaceful business basis, at work and prosperous. And the only happy and safe people are those engaged in useful work.

Our ideal of government is not to restrain or enslave — its desire is to give everybody the greatest possible freedom. We have permission to do anything we wish, so long as it does not interfere with somebody else's right to do the same.

King Arthur had less than half a million people to deal with.

Taft has eighty-five million to look after; and he smiles as he jerks the sceptre for eight hours a day.

King Arthur never smiled. How could he with such a hungry mob to organize? But the organization of men into peaceful groups is scientific government.

Forty-eight States, with a hundred counties each, spreading from ocean to ocean — booze banished (for nearly so), the carrying of deadly weapons a misdemeanor, the Stars and Stripes flying in front of countless schoolhouses, and smiling prosperity everywhere!

No wonder that Taft smiles.

No other man since history began ever had so good a right to smile as our own Big Bill.

So smile, Bill, and smile again, for God and Destiny are smiling with you.

But we will not rest satisfied until that smile circles the globe.

We do not believe in the expansion of government for conquest, but we do believe, body and boots, in an expansion of the smile of peace.

One step more, Bill, and that is to organize the countries from whence all of these people came on a peaceful basis. Yes, and do it not by subjugating them or depriving them of a single right, but by giving them increased freedom.

This is your mighty task.

And it is not as difficult as the task that confronted King Arthur. He was practically alone, but the thinking men and women of the whole world are with you.

Smile! For the troubles that harass you are only buzzing bluebottles, transient and trivial; but the benefits that will accrue from your wise and diplomatic work in behalf of universal peace will lay hold on the centuries to come.

The change from the strife of families, clans, estates and the different divisions of mankind to universal peace has been foreseen and foretold by every prophet and man of genius who ever lived.

It must come some time.

Isaiah, writing eight hundred years before Christ, said:

"The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them; and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

Popular Songs

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

Meet Me at the Henhouse, Henry, Dear

A YOUNG and trusting maiden was walking down the lane.
Accompanied by her Henry, a young and bashful swain.
"If you're what you say you are," she murmured unto him.
"I cannot marry you," he said, "my bank roll is too slim."
The poultry keeper's daughter, her maiden name was May,
Laughed lightly (just like this—Ha, Ha!) and unto him did say:

CHORUS:

"Meet me at the henhouse, Henry, dear.
I'll make your bank roll larger, never fear;
Trust your pretty little cousin,
Eggs are seven bucks a dozen,
So meet me at the henhouse, Henry, dear."

The bashful gent embraced the girl, and murmured, "Be my wife!"
It was the sweetest murmur she had heard in all her life.
They were married by a Justice whose moniker was Mike,
Then they hurried to the henhouse, but the hens were on a strike.
"I think your hens are dogs, my dear," that poor fall guy did say:
"You stung me good and plenty when you whispered, darling May:

CHORUS:

"Meet me at the henhouse, Henry, dear," etc.

A Guide to the Professions

By WEX JONES

DRUGGIST—If you decide to become a druggist you must spend some time learning the prices of postal cards, candy, hair brushes and other scientific objects. Putting up prescriptions is another part of the business, but this requires so much care that it is not attractive to any but industrious persons, for whom the guide is not intended. As you gain experience in the business you will unconsciously acquire information enough to answer such questions as:

What is the nearest telephone to 3761 Washington street?

Where can I buy a white rat?

How much is a telephone call to Hanover?

Is arsenic good for the complexion?

Does anything really cost $1,000,000 an ounce?

What car do I take to get to Egleston square?

Is this transfer any good?

Does ptomaine poisoning hurt?

BRICKLAYER—The equipment of a forger is very inexpensive and the returns are large, ranging all the way from one year to twenty. The work is light—the preliminary work, that is—and the profession would be crowded but for the hostility of the American Bankers' Association, a crudely commercial organization with no soul above money.

LECTURER—The successful lecturer must have a great flow of language. However, it need not be his own language, so ever, it need not be his own language, so ever, it need not be his own language, so ever
